John J. Reilly Passed Away at St. John's Hospital Today

Hostilities Between Italy and Turkey Began This Afternoon

Big Parade and Banquet in Honor of Occasion

John J. Reilly, aged 31 years, of 138 Cross street, died this morning at St. John's hospital, where he had been confined since last Monday night, suffering from a broken back, the result of a fall in a coal pocket.

Reilly, who was an employee of Friend Bros., working nights, was returning to his home on Monday night and in order to get there quicker as he was ill, he took a short cut across the railroad tracks. It was very dark and when the unfortunate man reached Livingston's coal pockets in Thorneike street, he fell from the railroad trestle and fractured his back.

Deceased was a well known young man, and much sorrow will be felt for his untimely death. He leaves a mother, Mrs. Mary Reilly, one sister, Theresa, and two brothers, James J. and Francis J. Reilly. He was a member of the local order of Eagles.

The remains were taken to the home of deceased, 138 Cross street, by Undertakers J. P. O'Donnell & Sons.

Express Clerk Found With His Hands and Feet Tied

HAMILTON, Ontario, Sept. 29.—During the night the main office of the Canadian Express Co. here was robbed and between $8,000 and $10,000 is missing. One package containing $1,000 within easy reach of the robbers was not touched.

At six o'clock this morning a driver, who usually calls at that hour to take packages intended for shipment on an early train, saw that a side door which is ordinarily unfastened was locked. The driver thought the clerk inside was asleep and tried to arouse him by pounding on the door, but failed.

Then the driver telephoned to the manager and that officer hurried down and the two forced open the door. They found the clerk awake with his hands and feet tied. Despite the fact that he was awake and was not gagged, the clerk had not answered the calls of the driver and the manager.

The manager refused to release the bound clerk until a policeman arrived and Detective Cameron responded to the call.

COLONEL CHADWICK

Will Be Buried at Exeter Tomorrow

The funeral of the late Alfred M. Chadwick occurs on Saturday. Public services will be held at the Kirk street church at 10:30 a. m. The commitment will be at the old home, Exeter, N. H.

The great plant of the Tremont & Suffolk mills will stop work for the week tonight. As a mark of love and esteem from all connected with the Tremont & Suffolk the mill gates will not swing open tomorrow, the day of burial of the late assistant agent.

The Vesper-Country club will send a delegation to the church services in Lowell and the delegation will also be present at the final services at Exeter.

SANITARY OFFICERS

NAMED BY THE LAWRENCE BOARD OF HEALTH

LAWRENCE, Sept. 29.—The board of health performed another of its peculiar stunts last night, when in electing three sanitary inspectors at $18 a week each, it took the two lowest men on the civil service list, James P. Tierney of 23 Fairmont street, ward four, and Eugene L. Garneau of 115averhill street, ward five, and gave them two inspectorships. John P. Fleming of 200 Barnham street, ward six, was third inspector elected. He was second on the civil service list. John Callaghan of 24 Springfield street, who had the highest average of any candidate on the list, was lost in the shuffle, as was ex-Rep. Wm. A. Hester of 476 Hampshire street, who was third on the list, having a higher average than either Tierney or Garneau. Wards one, two and three were ignored in the dealing out of places. A communication was received from Dr. John J. McAvoy to the effect that he was legally appointed a school physician and that he intended to resist any effort to oust him. The communication was laid on the table.

CREDIT UNION

WILL BE ORGANIZED NEXT TUESDAY EVENING

Frank Ricard received a letter this morning from H. E. Taylor, chief clerk of the bank commissioners' office in Boston in regard to the Jean of Arc Credit union to be established in St. Joseph's parish. Mr. Taylor was anxious to know if anything had been done towards the organization of the said union.

The Jean of Arc Credit union will be organized in the parish and for this purpose a meeting of the 248 people who signed the first papers will be held at St. Joseph's college hall in Merrimack street on Tuesday evening next at which time the officers of the new bank will be chosen.

This credit union would have been organized long ago but for the fact that Rev. Fr. Wattle, O. M. I., pastor of the parish, thought it advisable to wait until after the opening of the parochial schools, as his wishes are to give this bank in operation among the school children first.

FOREIGN OFFICE

PRESENTED SCENE OF ACTIVITY IN LONDON TODAY

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The news that Italy has occupied Tripoli is expected here any minute. The foreign office presented a scene of great activity this afternoon as a result of the Turkish-Italian crisis. The foreign secretary, Sir Edward Grey, returned from the country, where he had been visiting, and had long and separate conferences with the Italian ambassador, Marquis De Francavilla, and the Turkish ambassador, Tewfik Pasha. Later the Austria-Hungary ambassador, Count Mostardorff-Pouilly-Dietrichstein, called on the secretary.

It is expected that the Turkish cabinet at last night's meeting framed a second appeal to the powers to use their influence to prevent a war. The diplomats here are strong in the belief that in order of good offices on the part of other countries can avert Italy's present move.

CITY OF TRIPOLI

PRESENTED A DESERTED APPEARANCE TODAY

TRIPOLI, Sept. 29.—This city, which is threatened with a hostile occupation, was desolate this morning. Nearly all the Europeans left last night upon orders from the Italian consul and today the streets were deserted, except for squads of Turkish soldiers who are enthusiastic over the situation. The Arabs have held mass meetings in the squares and taken a solemn oath of allegiance to the Turkish flag "to the last drop of blood."

The Turkish transport Terna has discharged 20,000 tons of ammunition stores and 15,000 Mauser rifles. These have been taken into the interior, 19 camels being used in moving the supplies.

AN ULTIMATUM

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A news dispatch from Vienna says that Turkey proposes to present an ultimatum to Greece demanding that the latter withdraw all claims to Crete.

GEN'L GARIBALDI

HAS BEEN ASKED TO ORGANIZE AN UPRISING

CHIASO, Switzerland, Sept. 29.—The expressed wish of the Italian government that the Tripoli affair shall not be taken as an opportunity to create trouble in other Ottoman provinces appears likely to be disappointed. The Albanians consider this an excellent moment for another uprising, and have addressed General Garibaldi, the son of the Italian patriot hero and have asked him to organize an army of volunteers commanded by himself or his son, General Giuseppe Garibaldi, who figured in the recent Mexican insurrection.

The elder Garibaldi does not think the season propitious for a rebellion against Turkey, owing to the cold and snow in the Albanian mountains.

CHILDREN IN PERIL

Youngsters in Path of Runaway Horse

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The Guardian Angel's school at Twenty-ninth street and Tenth avenue had just dismissed 500 children for the day yesterday at 5 o'clock and the crossings were crowded when a horse attached to a United States Express company wagon standing at Ninth avenue and Twenty-third street ran away. The driver was not on the wagon at the time. The horse ran west, sometimes on the sidewalk and sometimes on the street.

Policeman Benninger, who was stationed at the crossing saw the horse coming and headed the children over to the southwest corner of the street. The children, however, did not heed the policeman's warning and ran toward the horse before it reached the sidewalk and jumped for its neck, looking both ways as it ran. The horse then turned south and ran along the sidewalk toward Twenty-second street, dragging the cop and wagon, from which several packages were falling. Bittering the street. Women from tenement windows screamed to their children to get away from the horse.

Halfway down the block was an open alleyway. The horse missed the opening but the policeman's body stopped through. He hung on like grim death, however, and the horse dragged him out again. Benninger now got a tighter grip on the horse's writhing and with one hand plucked its nostrils, bringing it to a stop. Presently the panicked driver came running up to claim the life. No damage had been done to any one or anything, but the cop was pretty tired and bruised.

ALLEGED KIDNAPPER

Was Arrested by the New York Police

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Pietro Pallozzolo, who is described as an active member of the blackmailing band which has kidnapped and held for ransom the children of wealthy Italian-Americans for the last three years, was arrested last night.

Ever since the kidnapping of Michele Scimeca, June 21, 1910, the police have been on the trail of Pallozzolo, and at one time could have arrested him, but held off for the return to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Mariano Scimeca, of their four-year-old son.

With his profits from the ransom paid for the return of the Scimeca boy, Pallozzolo took a trip to Europe.

When captured last night he was taken with the profits of the ransom paid for the return of five-year-old Vincenzo Sabella, of No. 363 Broome street, who was kidnapped almost two months ago.

By the arrest of Pallozzolo the police hope to recover Leonardo Quatrone, who was kidnapped August 21 last, and whose father, Pietro, is a poor fish peddler and was unable to pay the ransom demanded. It is believed the Quatrone boy was kidnapped by Pallozzolo in mistake for the child of wealthy parents, and that the black-mailers have been holding him to collect even a small sum from the father.

Three detectives from headquarters

—Corrao, Castano and Bondero—disguised as had men, picked up the trail of Pallozzolo yesterday, and shadowed him to the corner of Delancey and Norfolk streets, where, at a signal, they grasped and pinned him to the wall, and he had a chance to make resistance.

Their first act was to release their prisoner of a revolver which he had sworn to use before he should ever be taken alive. Pallozzolo protested in Italian against his arrest and declared he could not speak English. He was taken to police headquarters and arraigned there.

The prisoner described himself as Vito Micelli, said he was 29 years old and a laborer, and lived at No. 167 Christie street. He was "dolled up" like a Christmas tree. The detectives took from him an expensive diamond pin, two solitary diamond rings, one of the stones weighing more than two karats; a massive gold watch and chain, with a five-dollar gold piece as a fob, and $170 in cash. They added the revolver to the collection.

"I didn't have the gun," said Pallozzolo, in clearest English.

"Thought you couldn't speak English," said Bondero.

Pallozzolo shook his head, and, after that, the police could not get a word from him. He was held in a charge of kidnapping the Scimeca boy.

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—There was a heavy break in the market today. The Goettinger bank suspended today. FORGER PAROLED

On Condition That He Quits White Way

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Judge Swann, in general sessions yesterday, imposed a sentence that will send a shudder along Broadway from Twenty-third to Fifty-ninth street, bring tears to the eyes of the members of the Forty-second street Country club and disturb the rest of those who go to bed at 9 o'clock in the morning in order to be up early in the afternoon.

It was a scene to be remembered when Stephen Sedelmeyer, nineteen years old, of No. 565 Bleecker drive, Arlington, N. J., was ordered to stand up before the stern judge. He had pleaded guilty to forgery on the firm of C. H. Morand, where he was employed at $10 a week, of a check for $200. The total of his forgeries was said to be $225 and during the forty days he has been in the Tombs his family and friends have made restitution for the full amount.

Pleas for mercy had been received by the judge, from Sedelmeyer's young wife, from his employers and influential citizens. It was thought justice would be tempered with mercy and none was prepared for the unusual punishment that the judge meted out.

"Young man," said Judge Swann in a voice so terrible that the prisoner trembled, "I will parole you on the condition that you never again tread the Great White Way."

"The Great White Way is not even to be traversed by you. That's just the spot you cannot stand. At this point a well known actor, at liberty, fainted in the court room. You have not got the strength. I have instructed traffic policemen to pick you up and bring you here before me if they ever see you there and I'll give you five years."

"I want you to describe a circle about the Great White Way and keep away from it."

With bowed head Sedelmeyer turned to walk away and then the judge remarked:

"If any man can be more kind of an ass than he is, I would like to know it. Some people say the Great White Way is the place where the weaklings go to the wall. However, that is no excuse for the easiest way."

SON OF DICKENS

ARRIVED IN BOSTON AND WILL LECTURE

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Perhaps there will be a supplementary volume of "American Notes" in the light of 50 years after and in the eyes of the second generation through the arrival in this country today of Alfred Tennyson-Dickens, a son of the famous novelist and a cousin of the poet.

Mr. Dickens was 15 years old when his father landed in Boston for his American tour, in which he found much to criticize directly in books written after his return to England.

Like his father, the young Dickens is here to lecture. There is something in his appearance which will recall the older and younger Dickens, not the beard and bushy hair, but the same simple way that many Englishmen remember on the lecture platform.

Alfred Dickens has spent most of his life in Australia, coming there at the age of 20.

WOMAN INJURED

SHE WAS STRUCK BY A TROLLEY CAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Louis Bandrow and Mrs. John Conroy, sisters, of Newport, N. H., here on a visit, became confused in a tangle of traffic up-town today while attempting to cross the car tracks. Mrs. Bandrow was hit by and phoned beneath a car which her sister escaped by running backward. The motorist and a policeman extracted the injured woman, who was found to be suffering from a scalp wound and possible internal injuries.

Blaze in Two Buildings in Malden

MALDEN, Sept. 29.—Two fires in wooden buildings in different sections of the city early today caused a severe and damage to the amount of nearly $15,000. Help was called from Everett to prevent the fires from spreading to adjoining wooden structures. The carriage and automobile factory and repair shop of Hancock & Ready, near the railroad station of the Boston & Maine, was badly gutted at a loss of $10,000. Sparks carried to nearby buildings and several families were obliged to flee into the chilly night in their night clothes. Fire starting from spontaneous combustion in the Malden Grain Co. storeroom caused a loss of $500. Hard work by the firemen prevented the blaze from spreading to a large business block adjacent.

Next week is Quarter Week at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Orders instructing 65,000 employees of the mechanical departments on the Harriman railroads, including the Illinois Central, to strike at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

President Kline of the International Brotherhood of the Railroad Engineers, who prepared the strike order that the railroad officials say will either not be sent out or will not be obeyed today says that the men are eager to strike and that all preparations for a strike have been perfected. He said that the reply of Mr. Kruttschnitt of the Harriman roads to the federation's ultimatum left no alternative to a strike, except to withdraw the demands of the union.

There will be no strike, according to the officers of the railroads concerned. The belief of the railroad managers that the men would not strike is based on the fact that thousands of railroad men are already idle as a result of recent trenchment by the Harriman roads and that the demands of the men do not call for any increase in wages.

THIS MONTH'S WIND-UP

TODAY and TOMORROW

I bring this successful month to a close. I am out for the biggest business in the history of my Lowell store. In my efforts to establish still higher figures, extraordinary values will play the all important part.

My old customers realize the advantage of acting on any special call I send out to them upon occasions like this and those of them who are now in the market for a suit or overcoat or expect to be within a few weeks are hereby admonished to make it imperative to get in today or Saturday.

To the man who never entered my store, I issue this earnest plea. Kindly get in Saturday at any hazard. This is one of the biggest days in the tailor's year.

I have the golden opportunity to put one hundred new names on my books for this Fall's demand. You have the golden opportunity to see Mitchell's effort to make new customers by the plain, deliberate, premeditated slaughter of New England's famous woollens.

I HAVE THE ROCKVILLE OVERCOATINGS. I have them in all their styles and quality. I have more of them than any concern in Lowell. More than any wholesale or retail woolen dealer. I want you to see them before you buy elsewhere. I am looking for a sensation on them, and I deserve the credit for being able to turn them out at popular prices.

WHERE CAN YOU BUY THE SHERIFF MILLS WORSTEDS AT MY PRICES? High grade, heavy weight, dark, all wool, double and twisted worsted suitings, from Sheriff Mills, of Fitchburg. Why, the name guarantees quality.

AND PARAGON MILLS SATIN BACKED BLUE FANCIES that sell the second a man puts his hand on the goods. Quality, why there is no quality too good for my customers. There is no quality made in America that I won't get for you, if you only show appreciation.

TODAY OR TOMORROW

Two minutes of your time, your own eyes to see, your own fingers to feel, your own memory of what like qualities always cost you in the past, and I STAND WITH YOUR ORDER OR WITHOUT IT, JUST AS YOU JUDGE, and I am sure it's no harm to look.

GOVERNOR FOSS

Opened His Campaign at the Barre Fair

DARRE, Sept. 29.—Governor Foss opened his campaign for re-election here yesterday at the Barre County fair. It was governor's day and the governor and his staff and council were guests of the management. Long before the governor arrived a record breaking crowd had gathered upon the grounds and when he did make his appearance he was given a royal welcome. Then he was escorted about the exhibits and then to the dining hall, where a specially prepared dinner awaited him and the other guests. Following the luncheon Governor Foss was escorted to the grandstand facing the race track where he delivered a short address during which he stated that he was glad he was re-nominated, and that he would do even more for the people of the commonwealth than he has, if elected for the second term. Plans for the betterment of the farmers and agriculture in general throughout the state constituted the subject of Governor Foss' address. After reviewing several close heats in the pacing and trotting races, Governor Foss and his staff left for Boston.

SEAMEN LOST

THEY WERE PICKED UP BY SCHOONER OLIVE F. HUTCHINS

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The diving quarters on the fishing schooner Olive F. Hutchins had the appearance of an

Atlantic avenue restaurant last Sunday evening on the fishing grounds, and for 24 hours the cook on board worked without a rest.

The schooner was lying in the heavy fog and at intervals of about 10 minutes, dorymen from other schooners, who were lost from their vessels would row up and ask the lookout to be taken aboard.

Before Monday morning 15 men had been picked up by the Hutchins and some of them had been without food and water for nearly 14 hours. Ten of the men were from the schooner Robert and Arthur and three were from the Buena.

The Hutchins later met the Buena and transferred the three men to her and a short time afterwards the Robert and Arthur hove in sight looking for her men and they were likewise restored to their vessels.

Yesterday morning, while on the way in, the Hutchins and the schooner Josie and Phoebe collided. Aside from losing her swordfish puppet the Hutchins escaped injury and the other schooner was uninjured.

COST OF SHOES

WALTER C. TAYLOR DISCUSSES ADVANCE IN PRICE

Walter C. Taylor speaks as follows on the "High Cost of Shoes":

It is style, not shoe, that costs. The too rapidly changing styles entail expense. A fashionable Chicago dealer displayed a card reading: "We change our styles every afternoon at three o'clock." A Brooklyn dealer advertised his satin boots as "the most fashionable and most extravagant footwear of the season." Both advertisements took with the public. The joke was on the woman who persists in buying shoes that are really "extravagant." Quick changes in style greatly increase the cost of making.

Women demand bronze kid one season, then corduroy, then dull calfskin; meanwhile the patterns must change from regulation six-inch tops to seven and eight-inch tops; lasts must be renewed outright. The shoe situation in general might be helped if manufacturers endeavored to restrict the senseless multiplicity of style production.

It is wholly within the range of probabilities that an era of "common sense" in shoes will follow the spread of real information regarding modern shoes, their qualities and their best uses. Common sense in footwear does not at all consist exclusively of flat-heeled, broad-toed ugliness; it rightly includes grace and beauty as well as utility, good taste as well as solid wearing quality.

FRENCH PREMIER

Says There is No Discord With Germany

PARIS, Sept. 29.—M. Caillaux at 5 o'clock this morning received a delegation of brokers which included also representatives of the curb who feared the effect on today's quotations of the pessimistic reports of fresh disputes arising between France and Germany over Morocco. They were especially uneasy as tomorrow will be settlement day.

The premier assured his visitors that no new discord with Germany existed, but that simply some questions had arisen as to the phrasing of various points to obtain lucidity and precision. The cabinet will meet tomorrow to consider these questions and "edit" France's rejoinder.

SENATOR CRANE

Is to Direct the Republican Campaign

Senator W. Murray Crane will take an active part in the management of the campaign of Lieut. Gov. Louis A. Frothingham for governor. He will take up headquarters in Boston while the campaign is in progress. Last night Senator Crane and Chairman Charles E. Hatfield of the republican committee met in Dalton at the former's home and went over the plans for the coming campaign.

Senator Crane will come up for reelection in 1918; that is he will come up before the legislature elected in November, 1917.

The junior senator is accredited with being one of the shrewdest politicians in the country and he was very active in the campaign of the allies at the last republican convention. The republican organization is elated with the fact that he is to participate actively in the campaign of Frothingham against Foss.

The executive committee of both the republican and the democratic state committees met yesterday. Congressman Robert O. Harris will preside over the republican convention, which will be held in Tremont Temple next Thursday.

The chairman of the committee on resolutions of the republican state committee is Samuel J. Rifer. The other members are Dana Malone of Greenfield, Allen T. Treadway of Stockbridge, Joseph Monette of Lawrence and Henry C. Mulligan of Natick.

Ex-Governor Bates was chosen chairman of the permanent organization of Senator Charles H. Pearson was elected chairman of the committee on credentials and Councillor Walter I. Glidden of Somerville, chairman of the committee on finance.

PRESENTED LOCKET

A very successful farwell party was tendered Miss Ruth G. Halpin Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Joseph Flynn in Hildreth street.

The young lady is known to the Lowell public as a very talented vocalist. Miss Halpin, who is about to live in Brookline, is to enter the New England Conservatory of Music to have her voice further cultivated.

After visiting some of her friends, she returned to her home to find it overcrowded with her many friends who had gathered there to present her with a beautiful gold chain and diamond studded locket.

The presentation speech was made by Miss Ruth Kirby. Miss Halpin, though taken completely by surprise, thanked her friends in a very appropriate manner. An interesting entertainment program was carried out.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The meeting of the O'Donnell Mutual Benefit association was held with a large attendance. Reports for the year were read and accepted, and the election of officers took place with the following results: Henry Worth, president; Miss Catherine McQuaid, vice president; Miss Mary P. Hayes, secretary; James P. Henry, treasurer; Manuel Santos, collector; Miss Beatrice C. White and Miss Emma E. McOsker, auditors.

WOMAN AVIATOR

Broke Endurance Record at Long Island

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A successful test of the practicability of sending wireless messages from aeroplanes, target shooting on the wing, the breaking of the American endurance record for women by Miss Helene Dutricq and an excited passenger-carrying contest were the principal features of the sixth day of the international aviation meet at Nassau boulevard, Long Island.

The conditions were ideal. The wireless test was made by a telegraph operator in the biplane of Lieut. Arnold, who succeeded in flashing sky messages from a height of 250 feet.

The target shooting contest was somewhat of a disappointment as Capt. Patrick Hamilton, the crack English shot, allowed the match to go by default to Lieut. J. E. Kieck of the 23rd infantry after flying back and forth in front of the target several times with Tom Sowid without sighting his rifle. The contestants were to fire six shots each at a target 20 feet square. The American army officer, firing from a distance of 150 feet, made some fairly good hits.

Miss Dutricq, driving a Farman biplane, made a new American record for women by remaining in the air 37 minutes 22 2-5 seconds.

The passenger-carrying contest of 10 miles was for biplanes and was won by Capt. Paul Beck (U. S. A.), while the only one to finish out of seven contestants, would have come in second had not Lee Hammond's motor gone dead when he was within 100 feet of the mark, a sure winner. In this event Lieut. Ellison, U. S. A., smashed the left wing of his machine on a pylon as he was rising.

A cross-country race of 20 miles to Belmont park, to Minerva and back was won by Claude Grahame-White in his Niagara against George W. Dwyer in a Duperdusson, the only other contestant.

Bishop Burgess yesterday replied to the letter of Timothy L. Woodruff, sent him by aeroplane on the subject of Sunday flights. The bishop declared he was surprised that a man so prominent in the affairs of state as Mr. Woodruff should willingly try to evade the law by a technicality.

GIRL IS MISSING

Sister Thinks She is Held Captive

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Nellie Janesen, 23 years old, a waitress, disappeared from the Black Rock hotel in Cohasset on Aug. 11, and her sister Martha, who lives at 2 Bigelow street, Somerville, thinks that the young woman is being detained in some place in this city.

When the young woman left the hotel she told no one where she intended to go and it was not until Sept. 2 that her sister received any word from her. On that date she received a letter written, in such a way that it gave her sister to understand that Nellie had been sick at the hotel for three weeks and that she would be home the next Saturday.

Upon investigation it was learned that the letter was posted at the North station postoffice on the same date. The young woman's mother, in Canada, received a letter dated Sept. 2 on the 22d of September. The postal authorities told the young woman's sister that they could not understand why it took the letter 29 days to reach its destination in Canada.

Martha Janesen called at police headquarters yesterday to ask the police to aid her in the search which she is making for her sister. The police are unable to do anything in the matter as they have no clue upon which to work.

She stated to a reporter that she felt sure that her sister was being held captive in this city owing to the fact that both letters, without any address, were mailed in this city.

Associate is the place tonight.

JUDGE LAWTON

SENTENCED TICKET THIEF TO HOUSE OF CORRECTION

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Judge Lawton in superior court yesterday afternoon sentenced Gavin I. Young to the house of correction for two months. He was arrested last July charged with the larceny of 1975 railroad tickets, the property of the Boston, Rayner Beach & Lynn R. R., the total value of which was more than $500.

Young was a conductor in the employ of the railroad. It was shown that Melvin O. Adams, president of the railroad, acted the part of a detective, securing much of the evidence against both Young and Michael Levinson. The latter was arrested at the same time on a charge of receiving the stolen tickets.

The thefts had been going on two weeks before they were discovered. It was expected that Levinson would also be sentenced yesterday afternoon, but attorney John P. Dooley asked the judge to suspend sentence until after the Jewish holidays. The judge granted the request and Levinson will come up for sentence next Wednesday afternoon.

MAN MAY DIE

AS RESULT OF KNIFE WOUND IN THE STOMACH

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Stabbing affrays kept ambulances, surgeons and policemen hustling in South Boston last night.

John O'Connor, 32 years old, and Michael McCarthy, 31, both of 17 O street, got into an argument near their homes about 8 o'clock. The fight ended when McCarthy received a knife wound in the stomach. He is at the Carney hospital in a precarious condition. O'Connor was arrested charged with intent to kill.

About the same time Eugene Derby, 28 years old, 20 Spring street, was stabbed in the back while standing at East Eighth and Dorchester streets. He was taken to the City hospital. His assailant is not known. Derby was not badly hurt.

ALIMONY UNPAID

Bankrupt Woman Has Claim on Husband

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Ethel S. Elliott, who 11 years ago left the stage to marry John Love Elliott, a reputed millionaire, and obtained a divorce seven years later with $20,000 a year alimony, filed a remarkable petition in bankruptcy yesterday. She schedules liabilities of $24,316, and gives as her only asset $28,415 (unpaid alimony), leaving it to the courts to decide whether unpaid alimony constitutes an asset under the bankruptcy law. As Ethel Irene Stewart, Mrs. Elliott was well born and gently nurtured until death and misfortune threw her upon her own resources with a mother to support. She became a choir singer, but the pay was so small that she returned to the stage, and in 1900 appeared in "Chris and the Wonderful Lamp," at the Victoria theatre. Miss Stewart attracted the attention of John Love Elliott, president of the Consolidated Arizona Smelting company, and an officer and director in many other business firms, with a rating of many times a millionaire. Miss Stewart and Mr. Elliott met at the home of a friend, her brief stage career came to an end, and they were quickly married. Seven years later, as quietly as she had been married, Mrs. Elliott obtained a divorce. It was reported that she had demanded and had been granted $100,000 alimony. Within two weeks her husband married Miss Laura Moore, who had been Mrs. Elliott's music teacher. The bankruptcy petition discloses for the first time the amount of alimony granted to Mrs. Elliott and equally surprising is the allegation of Mrs. Elliott that he is more than a year in arrears in payment of alimony.

AN ENTERTAINMENT

HELD AT WORTHEN STREET METHODIST CHURCH

The Worthen Street Methodist church was the scene last night of a very successful supper and entertainment. The entertainment program was as follows: Piano solo, Mrs. W. A. Wood; song, Miss Gertrude Merrill; duet, Dr. and Mrs. Wood; song, Miss Pitt; reading, Raymond White; sketch by a company of young people; piano solo, Gertrude Merrill. The reports of the Ladies Aid society for the past year were read and showed a balance remaining after all bills paid. The society raised $200 for the church work and in addition raised and spent on alterations in the parsonage, the sum of $221.25. The election of officers of the Ladies Aid society resulted as follows: President, Mrs. J. P. Smith; vice president, Mrs. J. V. Peal and Mrs. E. S. Coeledge; managers, Mrs. Mark K. Staples, Mrs. Walter Folsom, Mrs. Carl Kuhn, Mrs. Lester Williams, Mrs. Annie Stone, Mrs. May Hardy, Mrs. Quimby, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. J. F. Prator; treasurer, Mrs. A. P. Hamilton; secretary, Miss L. HARVEST SUPPER

WAS HELD AT THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The annual harvest supper of the First Baptist church was held last night. The supper was all to the good, and there was an entertainment that was all to the good. The affair was given by the benevolent society of the church assisted by all the women whose names began with letters from N to Z. The hall was prettily decorated, the work being done by Miss Martha Taylor. The decorations included fruit, flowers and vegetables, and the arrangement was very artistic. The entertainment was furnished by the Sigma Sigma society of the church. The title of the sketch was "A Pan of Pudge" showing a group of college girls having a "time" in one of the rooms of the supposed dormitory, and the many incidents and accidents were cleverly handled. The cast included: Mrs. Smith, Faith Day, Lillian Whitaker, Ivy Hands, Alice Fleming and Mrs. Wilfred Korshaw.

WM. BUTLER YEATS

Irish Poet and Dramatist Spoke of Irish Stage

William Butler Yeats, the Irish poetical dramatist, was the speaker yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Boston Drama League, held at the Plymouth theatre. There was a very large attendance. It had been expected that Lady Gregory would speak, but Prof. Baker, president of the league, who made the opening address and introduced the speaker, announced regretfully that she was unable to be present, owing to a considerable delay in the arrival of the steamer on which she is a passenger. Mr. Yeats's subject was the "History of the Irish Stage," more especially referring to the "realistic movement" with which his own work is connected.

At the commencement of his talk Mr. Yeats mentioned two kinds of drama possible to present upon the stage, the poetical, imaginative drama, concerned with an ideal world, and the realistic drama, or that in which are represented the realities of life, heightened and retouched if necessary for dramatic purposes, but being the reproduction, on the boards, of life as led by real people. The latter form of drama is at present being given by Sig. Grasso and the Sicilians and of course by the Irish Players from the Abbey theatre now playing at the Plymouth theatre in Boston.

The source of this realistic drama in Ireland," Mr. Yeats said, "is in the life of the common people, and as in any ideal drama there must be the element of a beautiful, picturesque speech, it is in the nature of such a language should be found in the country, among the peasants, who are interested in life itself rather than in its mechanism, and whose speech is not merely commercially utilitarian.

Among Irish Peasantry.

He referred to many incidents in his own wanderings among the Irish peasantry illustrative of this fact, and spoke of picturesque tales told him, and especially of the description of a certain Mary Hinds, by villagers who remembered her beauty as being akin to the speech of Homer's old men as they talked of Helen of Troy.

"In Ireland," he said, "there is a continual struggle going on to prevent the conquest of the Irish mind by the English mind, and to preserve this unwritten folk literature, which has perished everywhere but in Gaelic Ireland. To this end the Gaelic league was founded.

Mr. Yeats is a poet and author of many plays mostly in verse. He spoke of the plays of Lady Gregory as being among the best of the recent productions. Unlike those of John M. Synge they do not deal out sarcasm in their laughter.

The Irish players from the Abbey theatre in Dublin have had a successful run at the Plymouth this week and will remain next week. They are receiving great compliments from all quarters.

WATER DEPARTMENT

Says There Will be an Improvement in the City Water

Complaints relative to the rather bad condition of the city water continue throughout the city, but the water board and water department officials expect that a marked improvement will soon be noted in the water. Superintendent Thomas said today that the rain and the cool weather would serve to clarify the water and he thinks that within a few weeks there will be no cause for complaint. "The cold weather will kill the crudity in the pipes and that will help," he said. "How much of the city water comes from the Merrimack river?" asked one reporter. "I presume that most of it comes from the river," said Mr. Thomas. "If the water should shut toward the river and the water runs that way, how do you account for the river water getting to the wells?" asked the reporter. "That is a question," said Mr. Thomas, "that is quite frequently asked, and the answer is very simple. We sink a well anywhere from 15 to 25 feet and when you dig a hole deeper than the bed of the river, the river water is going to find its way to that hole. That is the simple philosophy of the whole thing. I have no doubt that not only river water but water from across the river gets to our wells. It comes from people to hear that we are pumping river water, but there is no cause for alarm. The water filters itself on the way to the wells. It has to percolate through the sand and the sand acts as a natural filter." In some scientific magazine Mr. Thomas came across an article on the effect of iron in water, and he says it is the whole story. He said that everybody should read the article, and he furnished the reporter with a copy. The article is as follows: Effect of Iron in Water A high percentage of iron in water is undesirable by taste and more than that of five parts make a water unpalatable. In some mineral springs iron is the constituent which imparts a peculiar taste to the water. Iron, especially if it is unpalatable, thus, then, is a part per million in water used for householding makes a stain on clothes, iron must be removed from water from which tea is made or a cloudy discolored product will result. An iron content of over two or three parts per million in water used in the manufacture of paper will stain the paper. Iron is harmful in water used for steaming, for it is in equilibrium with acids which inside the boiler become discolored with the result that the fire and the boiler plates, but the amount of iron carried in solution by most waters is so small that the damage it does to steam boilers generally amounts to little. Waters having high iron content have in some places caused an increase in amount of trouble and expense when used as city supplies, for they favor the growth of exanthema to such a degree that the water pipes become clogged with the iron sheaths of the organism. The removal of iron from water is sometimes easy and sometimes difficult.

Dist. Attorney Pelletier The Wakiva to Visit Mediterranean May Fill Vacancy

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Joseph C. Pelletier, district attorney of Suffolk county, has been offered by Gov. Foss a place on the bench of the superior court. The district attorney has the matter under advisement. Friends have advised him to accept the appointment, although they believe that further political honors await him. If he continues in his recent office, there are two vacancies on the superior bench due to the death of Judge Richardson and the promotion of Judge DeCourcy to the supreme court. Gov. Foss, it is stated by friends of Mr. Pelletier, has looked with favor upon the record of the district attorney in his present office, and in his private practice before that. The district attorney has not indicated as yet to close friends whether he intends to accept the appointment.

Big Crowds Attend the Mission Services

At the mission services being conducted in St. Peter's church, Rev. Fr. Whelan, O. S. A., delivered a powerful sermon last evening on "Judgment." He urged them to adhere closely to the church and its teachings so as to merit reward before the judgment seat on the last day. A very large number of men received holy communion at the early morning service today. Tonight the services in the main church will be for the married men of the parish.

CHARGE OF ARSON

Made Against Napoleon Charrest in Police Court

With the mercury in the thermometer at the police court room hovering around the freezing point this morning, the court officials, witnesses, prisoners and newspapermen shivered for about an hour. It was so cold that Judge Hadley had to wear a heavy overcoat and he, like others who had business in court, was glad when the session was concluded.

Broke Into a Camp

The principal case to be brought to the attention of the court was that of James J. Lannon, a youth residing in Roxbury, who was charged with breaking and entering a camp at Pinehurst, Billerica, and stealing three saws, two planes, three hatchets, three chisels, a couple of hammers and an umbrella. Lannon entered a plea of not guilty and expected that his counsel would be present. Several days ago Lannon's counsel sent a communication to the clerk of the court stating that he had been a candidate for the house of representatives and was so tired that he would be unable to attend court, but added that he would be present this morning.

Inasmuch as the two principal witnesses in the case reside in Somerville the court did not feel like adding to the expenses by making a postponement and the case was tried. After the testimony had been offered the court reserved decision and held Lannon under bonds for his appearance tomorrow morning. In the meantime inquiries will be made as to his reputation.

The first witness called for the government was Miss Josephine Dixon, who testified that she resides at 18 Ash avenue, Somerville, and that she and three other young women own a cottage at Pinehurst, Billerica. They visit the camp on Saturday nights and remain there over Sunday. Recently when they went to the place they found that one of the windows in the rear of the building had been pushed in and a number of tools, an umbrella and canned goods had been stolen.

Thinking that the larceny had been committed by some of the campers in the vicinity they made a tour of investigation and while passing two tents at Pinehurst discovered some towels which they recognized as their property. They entered one of the tents, which it was afterwards learned was occupied by Lannon and a young man named O'Hara, and found a chisel in a suit case belonging to Lannon.

Miss Dixon testified that the following night she had a conversation with Lannon and he admitted that he and O'Hara had entered the cottage. He denied having taken anything but said that O'Hara went upstairs and took some tools which the latter claimed belonged to him. Lannon said that he knew that O'Hara later pawned the tools in Boston.

Officer Martin Conway who arrested Lannon in Roxbury, testified that Lannon admitted entering the cottage but that he did not steal anything.

Witness said that O'Hara had made his escape and his whereabouts is not known at the present time.

When the defendant, Lannon, was placed on the stand, he admitted entering the place but said he did so because he was afraid of O'Hara. He said that although he was in the building he did not take any articles and does not know where O'Hara is at the present time. The defendant stated that his father is a policeman in Philadelphia, his mother is a cook in a house at Newton, and he lives with his grandmother in Roxbury.

Owing to the conditions of the case Judge Hadley decided to reserve his decision in the matter until tomorrow morning and held Lannon under $500 for his appearance at that time.

Serious Charge Preferred

Napoleon Charrest was charged with drunkenness and maliciously and wilfully burning a building, the property of Margaret Whetlock. He admitted that he was drunk but denied that he set fire to a building. Inasmuch as the government was not ready for trial Supt. Welch asked for a continuance and the cases were continued until next Thursday morning, the defendant being held under $100 bonds.

Charrest was in the employ of a tailor who has a place of business at the corner of Market street and Suffolk court and occupied a room in the rear of the store. Wednesday night about 11 o'clock a fire broke out in the tailor shop and after the fire had been extinguished Chief Hosmer made an investigation which led him to believe that the fire was of incendiary origin and he reported the matter to the police.

When Charrest was brought to the police station he admitted that he had poured gasoline on a pipe in order to exterminate vermin. He said he had been drinking heavily and when he went to light his pipe the flame from the match communicated with the gasoline on the pipe and started the fire in the tailor shop.

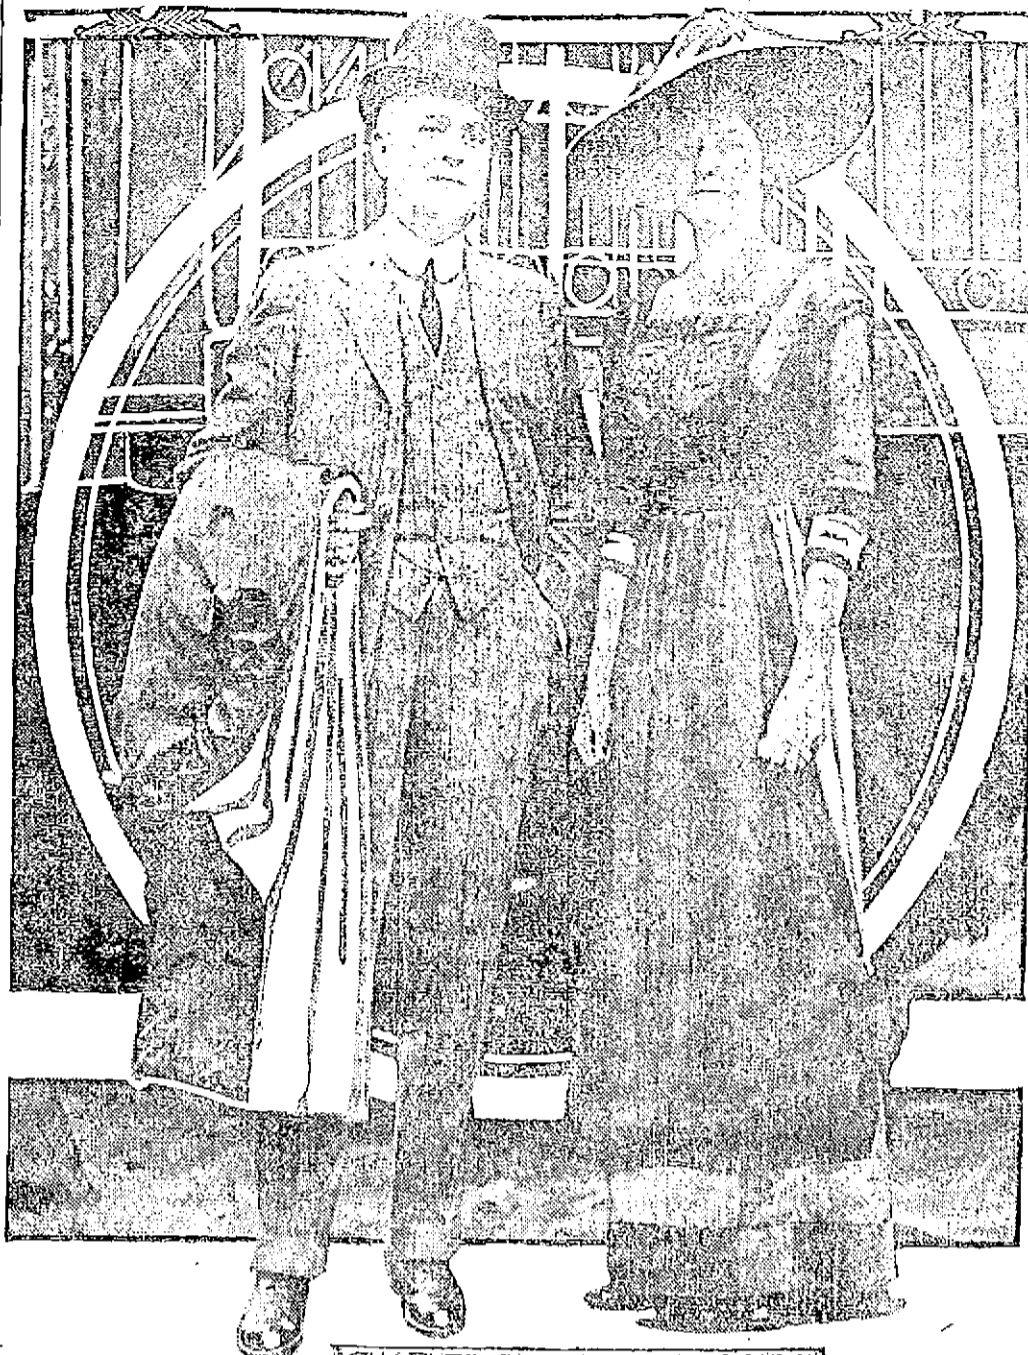

The police, however, are of the opinion that the defendant had had some trouble with the man who ran the tailor shop and the fire was result as a result.

Sent to the State Farm

Charles Menier, an elderly man who claimed Natchua as his home, was charged with being a vagrant. He entered a plea of guilty and after stating that he had no home and wanted to be sent away the court sentenced the man to the state farm.

Two Months in Jail

James M. Harding entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with drunkenness but after Patrolman Castles testified that he was called to Harding's home in Broadway about 8:10 o'clock yesterday morning by neighbors who had entered a complaint, that he found the man in an intoxicated condition and placed him under arrest, the court found the

MATRIMONIAL

A very pretty fall wedding was solemnized at the parochial residence of St. Peter's church, Wednesday afternoon when Jas. J. Curran, the popular clerk at the A. J. Donohue store, and Miss Margaret Cullinan, sister of Ralph Cullinan, the well known Goshen street merchant, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Miss Cullinan was attended by Miss Ida Wilson, and the best man was Thomas Roughan. After the ceremony the happy couple, and their relatives and friends were entertained at the home of the bride in Central street. The couple departed on the late train for their honeymoon to be spent in Washington, D. C., and other southern cities. Mr. and Mrs. Curran were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents. They will be at home to their friends after November 1st.

played will be enacted by young Columbians.

It is not intended that this Colonial reunion shall be a mutual admiration society based on an ancestry for which the present families were not responsible, but rather to inspire a feeling of responsibility for high purposes and lofty ends.

WOMAN ENTERS SUIT

She Wants to Recover Notes That Were Given in 1885

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Edward L. Coffin, of Newburyport, filed a bill in equity in the superior court today, claiming that he is the owner of a certain amount of stock of the Fibertold company, valued at over $50,000, and that the same is still standing in his name on the company's transfer books.

Mrs. Hastings brought the action to recover on three notes which she claims Coffin made payable to her and John Hastings in 1885 and 1886 in the amount of $2,000 each, interest to date. The case has been in the Massachusetts courts since 1902, the first step having been a suit filed in Salem in which Mrs. Hastings sought to secure a verdict on a civil action.

In the present action she claims that Coffin, in order to defraud his creditors, transferred the certificates of stock to Austin, who turned it over to Stone, but that the ownership of the stock is still vested in Coffin, his name appearing on the books of the company. She also says that the certificates are now in the hands of Stone, who has refused to make the transfer.

They also say that the failure of Mrs. Hastings to proceed against Coffin within six years from the time of the expiration of the notes in question, bars her from recovering by civil process through the statute of limitation.

The defendants then go into a lengthy explanation as to the origin of the Fibertold company, of the manner in which the certificate of stock first came into the possession of Coffin, was transferred to Austin and then to Stone for a consideration.

They say that they have already made application to the treasurer of the company to have the stock transferred to the name of Stone, but that he has refused and they have instituted equity proceedings to compel him to make the transfer.

They also say that the failure of Mrs. Hastings to proceed against Coffin within six years from the time of the expiration of the notes in question, bars her from recovering by civil process through the statute of limitation.

DIRECTORS SUED

They Admit Company Paid Verdict

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—President Otis Simonds and several directors of the Eastern Cold Storage company admit that the $107,500 which they were called upon to pay as a result of a verdict against them in the Middlesex superior court on account of a suit against them by Walter L. Hill, formerly treasurer of the company, was paid out of the company's treasury.

This admission was made in an answer filed in the supreme court to a bill in equity filed by Hill and H. L. Smith of New York, as executors under the will of Harford H. Kirk of New York, in which they seek to induce the supreme court to rule that James S. Murphy of Brooklyn, George H. Musgrave, Arlington, vice president of the company, Otis Simonds, president, and H. L. Mason of Boston, all directors reimburse the company for the amount of money paid from the company's treasury as a result of Hill's civil action. Arthur A. Smith, treasurer of the company, is also made a defendant in the action.

The Hills in their bill claim that the defendants, except Smith, were guilty of a malicious libel circulated against W. L. Hill in connection with his conduct of the office of treasurer of the Eastern Cold Storage company, as a result of which Hill sued them, recovering a verdict of $25,000 with $100 costs. They say that this amount, together with $100 counsel fees resulting from the success of the civil action, was paid from the treasury of the company.

They said that in the meeting of January last the defendants were asked to return the money to the company's treasury, that W. L. Hill attempted to

RHEUMATISM SELDOM KILLS

The Chief Danger Is from the After-Effects Caused by the Condition in Which It Leaves the Blood.

Statistics show that very few victims of rheumatism die from the disease directly. The worst feature of the disease from the standpoint of mortality, is the legacy of thin blood and shattered nervous system it leaves.

The best treatment for rheumatism is rest, in bed if possible, and a supporting or tonic medicine which will keep up the strength of the patient and repair the thinning of the blood which is always present in this disease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are such a remedy and have been used with marked success in thousands of cases.

My Mr. Adams, a resident of Had Ave., Mich., has been permanently cured by this treatment and his grateful prompts him to make the following statement for the benefit of those who still suffer:

"After working for a long time in the lumber camp, going through exposure to dampness and suffering from colds," he says, "I had an attack of rheumatism, that lasted two years. It affected my arms and shoulders and quick, sharp pains ran all through my left side. My arms, principally the elbows, were sore to the touch. My back was lame and the kidneys affected. I could not lie down to sleep, because the pain would then be too severe, but had to be bolstered up in a chair. I had no appetite, could do hardly any work and began to think life was not worth living."

"I had different doctors, who helped me for a time, but the trouble always came back. I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in a paper and, chancing to talk to a neighbor about them, found he had been cured of rheumatism by these pills. I immediately bought some and could see after taking a few boxes that they were helping me. I took them a while longer and haven't had a touch of the trouble since. I cannot tell how much I value Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

These pills can be obtained at any drug store or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., $2.50 per box; six boxes for $12.50. A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free upon postal card request.

VACCINATION

BROUGHT DEATH TO A PITTSFIELD YOUTH

PITTSFIELD, Sept. 29.—John J. Manning, 16 years old, is dead at his home in West Stockbridge as a result of vaccination. He was a student in the first year business course of the Pittsfield High School and attended school Monday and Tuesday of this week.

He was vaccinated a week ago and caught a cold which developed into spinal meningitis, resulting in death. On returning to West Stockbridge from his studies at the local High School, he complained of aching pains in his throat and when these pains continued a physician was called, but was unable to save the boy's life.

The Manning boy was a native of West Stockbridge, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Manning. He was an athlete of considerable ability and was prominent in baseball and basketball in the school.

As a student at the Pittsfield High School, he was regarded as a model scholar.

Beside his parents, the boy leaves three brothers, James, Arthur and Bernard Manning, all residents of West Stockbridge, and a sister, Mrs. Edward Lynch, who resides in this city.

HE FOUGHT BURGLAR

Quincy Man Injured in the Struggle

QUINCY, Sept. 29.—Edwin Menchick, who lives in the old Thomas Boynton Adams house at 19 Elm Street, had a lively tussle with a burglar at his home last evening, but was obliged to let go his hold after the burglar had jammed a finger into his right eye and punched him several times.

Mr. Menchick returned from his daughter's house, a short distance away on the same street, at 8:30 and entered his house by the rear door. Hearing a man's footsteps he hid the gas in a middle room and saw a young man standing in another room.

Mr. Menchick started after the fellow, who ran through several rooms and out into the entryway, where Mr. Menchick had but just come into the house. Before the fellow could unfasten the door Mr. Menchick grappled with him and both landed up against a window, smashing a pane of glass.

In a tussle which followed both went down, with Mr. Menchick underneath. At this juncture the burglar struck Mr. Menchick in the face and mouth. He then made a spring for the back door, unfastened it and ran away. Before Mr. Menchick could get to his feet again the man had vanished.

Police headquarters was notified and the auto patrol with a squad of patrolmen went to the place and searched surrounding fields and streets, but did not see anything of the burglar.

In making a search of the back entry, where the fight took place, the burglar's cap was found. The police think the man knew that the family was away. He entered the house through a window in the pantry. Mr. Menchick said the fellow was a young man with a smooth face and a dark complexion.

BURNED TO DEATH

Man Perished in Fire in Boston Hotel

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—William Kiss, a florist of Manchester, N. H., was found suffocated in a room at the Lincoln House, 75 Causeway street, about 10 o'clock last night. The proprietor, looking into the room, saw the body, where the visitor was sleeping.

Kiss was taken from his perilous position, but it was too late as life was extinct. Dr. Murphy of the Relief Hospital staff was summoned. He found Kiss dead.

The flames in the room were extinguished without notifying fire headquarters. Mr. Kiss registered at the hotel on Wednesday, but little was known of him by the proprietor. The latter was attracted to the guest's room by the odor of smoke.

It is believed that the dead man had fallen asleep while smoking in bed and that in this way the bed clothing had caught fire.

The body was removed to the North Grove street morgue awaiting a claimant.

ORDER OF MOOSE

HELD AN ENJOYABLE ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE

Lowell lodge, No. 618, Loyal Order of Moose, held a ladies' night Wednesday night at their headquarters in Odd Fellows temple. There was a large attendance and the evening was spent in an enjoyable manner. Between 5 and 6 o'clock Hadley's orchestra gave a musical program, while a number of candidates were being initiated in the inner hall.

At 9 o'clock a grand march was held, after which a dance order of 20 numbers was carried out. There was a 15-minute intermission at 11 o'clock during which time refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the general arrangements was composed of the following: Captain Walter R. Jones, chairman; Charles H. Richards, R. J. Flynn, Frank Mussey, Felix Hill and A. H. Verity.

NARROW ESCAPE

PASSENGER ON TRAIN NEARLY HIT BY BULLET

LITTLETON, N. H., Sept. 29.—Irvin C. Renfrew, a clothing merchant of this town, returned Wednesday night from a trip to Portland and Boston, taking the 12:50 train from Boston and having a peculiar experience which might have cost him his life.

The train had been out about 15 minutes from the North station and was near Medford when he felt a yisitation from an explosion, and investigating found a small hole in the window in the seat just ahead of him which was occupied by Dr. Eugene Worthen of Ashland.

On examination the two men found that the hole was made by a bullet and this theory was corroborated by the finding of the bullet itself imbedded in the woodwork on the opposite side of the car.

It was plain that the bullet had been fired deliberately and Mr. Renfrew said it had probably been fired by some one hiding behind the abutments of a bridge beneath the abutment had just passed. It had evidently been fired from a point within a few feet of the car.

The train crew made a report to headquarters concerning the affair. The bullet missed Dr. Worthen by not more than three inches and Mr. Renfrew was not more than three feet from it.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT CAUSES CONSUMPTION, ACCORDING TO T. L. ELLIOTT

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—"Artificial light causes tuberculosis," declared T. L. Elliott in an address at the closing session of the Illuminating Engineering society yesterday. Mr. Elliott, who is editor of a technical magazine, said that he knew of 111 factories in which the germs of tuberculosis and other diseases develop because the workmen use only artificial light. He pleaded for the enactment of government laws that will prohibit the illumination of factories by artificial light only.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

To Carry City Departments Through the Year

The committee on appropriations will meet tonight and will consult with the superintendent of schools and the park department relative to extra appropriations to carry them through the year. The committee met with the heads of other departments at a recent meeting and the only two departments remaining to be heard from are the school and park departments. It is expected that the school department will ask for about $35,000. Last year the school department was given an appropriation of $289,721 and this year they asked for $358,000 and received $359,000, a cut of $17,000.

In the natural course of events it would not be expected that the department would ask for more than the $17,000 that was clipped off the first of the year, but the industrial school proposition has to be reckoned with and that means more money. There's a principal and seven teachers to pay and it costs a good penny to put the school house in shape. A good deal of the equipment was donated and a good deal had to be purchased. The putting in of buildings in the different school-houses, Mr. Whitcomb says, was an item of expense, too, as much as the cost of the buildings as to the amount of installing them. Mr. Whitcomb said today that he had not figured out how much more money the department would require to pull through the year but he said it would be considerable more than $17,000.

OPERA HOUSE

"The Newbyweds and Their Baby," a musical comedy built around a group of cartoons and characters familiar to many newspaper readers, will come to the Opera House tonight and Saturday.

This production serves once more to call attention to the achievements of an artist. George McManus, the author of the "Newbyweds" and his pictures are as famous as those of Buster Brown, and an army of other celebrities. The chief figures in the play that has been made around these pictures are Mr. and Mrs. Newbywed, Napoleon Newbywed, the baby Major Knott Much, and the Big Black Bear.

This story is so fantastic as to be almost farcical, but the complications are said to be so numerous and complicated that an entertainment of the farcical kind results. It appears that one Professor Nichol has a kind of museum in which he exhibits a midget, Major Knott Much. This attraction, wearing of routine duties, runs away from the museum, taking with him the Big Black Bear which is his constant companion. Professor Nichol, having a certain idea of the value of a midget, decides to take the place of Major Knott Much, leaving the bear and Mrs. Newbywed to look after him. He succeeds in kidnapping the baby, and then, for a time, there is a flurry of confusion over the baby and the efforts to recover him. Everyone suspects everyone else of having had a hand in the kidnapping, and matters right only after the most hopeless misunderstandings are brought about.

The comedy which has been staged to illustrate this lively story on the stage includes many familiar and popular performers. Master Earl Knapp, a comedian of the Lillian class, will appear as the baby and Major Knott Much, and his chief assistants will be Dan E. Murphy, Charles A. Morgan, Phil M. Smith, Otto Von Hatzfeldt, Louis Anderson, Milton Dawson, George Averill, Elsie Townsend, Ben Bernard, Gus Stroh, and a beauty chorus of more than fifty that can sing and dance.

DANTE'S INFERNIO

One of the most interesting features of the engagement of Dante's "Inferno" at the Lowell Opera House commencing Monday, Oct. 2, with daily matinees for one week, is the exhaustive of all the copies of the famous poem from the public libraries in cities where the attraction is now playing.

Another feature which excites much interest and admiration is the dramatic recital running in exact conformity with the pictures. This recital, which covers all the scenes of the special dramatic power is rendered by Charles H. Chas. who for several seasons has been a member of William Faversham's company. Mr. Chas. has also gained considerable fame in connection with his work on the Passion Play of Oberammergau. So impressively is this dramatic recital that a pen may be found to drop while the lecturer is speaking.

Special music has been composed to accompany the dramatic reading by Pietro Mascagni, which is rendered on a large pipe organ. Special effects have been devised by Mr. Thomas Guffy, who has been termed the "David Belasco" of motion picture effects. Mr. Guffy has made a fine study of illusions produced by sound, and it is said that he can conjure any noise from the chirp of a sparrow to the roar of a tornado.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

There are few comedians on the vaudeville stage who can be compared with John Keefe, who is appearing at the R. F. Keith's new theatre in Lowell. This week he is the star attraction on an exceptionally strong bill. He is presenting his delightful one-act comedy, "The Brainstorm Musical," assisted by Carrie Starr, a vivacious actress, who plays the role of a "hello girl" in a most acceptable manner. John Keefe was the star comedian of the legitimate stage several years ago and few comedians have ever enjoyed the popularity which has been his. In "The Brainstorm Musical" his true value as a comedian is shown, and it is the biggest laugh producing piece seen for many years. Another act which is billed as the leading feature of this week's bill and which has received the heartiest approval of the audiences of the early part of the week is Dr. Carl Herman, the most mysterious man science ever dealt with. Dr. Herman charges himself during his act with as much electricity as would be required to electrify six men. The act is a marvel and has been a huge thing for scientists who make a study of such superhuman demonstrations to diagnose. The other acts are Herbie Knight and company in "The Chalk Line," Mr. and Mrs. Allison in "Mimic from Minnesota," Harry Fantele and Viola Valtire, entertainers; Bender and Lester, gymnasts, and the Famous Brothers, dancers. Picture films close the bill.

On next week's bill is Little Lord Robert, the Lillian class comedian, the smallest comedian in vaudeville; Selwyn Venus, vaudeville's only living model; and the most artistic for art and settings ever produced; Van Haven, the mad magician; Leroy, Harvey and company, producing "Red Hot"; Arthur Van and his brace of comedy girls, Belle O'Keefe, the girl with the beautiful voice, and the Pendleton Sisters, dancers and entertainers.

Tickets may be reserved in advance by telephone 28.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Last night was "Elk Night" in this theatre and the members of the local lodge turned out to a man to greet their brother member, Donald Meek, and his associate players, who are giving "Naughty Rebecca" at the Hathaway theatre in three acts by Maurice Hagen. With the members of the R. F. O. L. who have become known as the "Three People on Parade" from their trade and both composed one of the largest audiences ever assembled in this theatre. They were well repaid in laughter for the reception which they tendered the players in a good fall measure of laughs, occupying over two hours. In the comedy of "Naughty Rebecca" there are many funny complications which are unknown in fact and some of the most modern comedies and these are what make it the most popular comedy of the famous humorist, Hagen.

Next week this company will produce the famous drama of American politics, "A Gentleman from Mississippi," the stirring story of political intrigue in and out of the national senate. The Hamiltons, one of the best known of American authors and Thomas A. Wise, who created the role of Senator Hamilton in the initial production of the play and who also collaborated with Mr. Rhodes' manuscript.

The play will be taken from the original manuscript used by Thomas A. Wise in the first performance and there will not be the slightest omission.

Mr. Hamilton, through several visits to Washington, has gained a touch of perfection in painting the scenery, and some of the places such as the Marine hall and the senate chamber can be readily recognized.

Jack Chagnon, the dramatic actor who for several years appeared with several stock companies in the advocacy of music and literary with his own company at the old Hathaway theatre, will become a member of the Donald Meek stock company next week and will make his first appearance Monday, Oct. 2, in the frontier drama, "In Texas." The announcement of the premiering of Mr. Chagnon was made last night and it

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The skillful expert sharpshooters who are appearing at the Merrimack Square theatre this week, performing some of the most difficult and daring feats with a rifle of any marksmen appearing before the public today. Their work borders on the marvelous and should be seen to be fully appreciated. The young woman lights snapham by shooting at it from the gallery and then snuffs it out with a second shot. She also clips off the end of a cigar held in the mouth of her brother and accomplishes many other equally wonderful feats.

Miss Beatrice Stello, the new member of our stock company, who is appearing in the presentation of "The Open Gate," is winning friends by the score. Her work is that of a finished artist and compares with the high standard of entertainment provided by the other members. The other attractions are scoring heavily at all performances. Anty Drudge Tells How.

Mrs. Kowler—"Well, I must be going. Now mind, you come and see me next week. Any day 'cept Monday. That's my wash-day, and the house will be full of steamy soap-suds, and me too tired to make you a cup of tea."

Anty Drudge—"That's just the day I'll come. And I'll be there bright and early with a cake of Fels-Naptha soap. The wash will be on the line before noon—and the ironing done before night."

If you found it easier to do your washing on Tuesday than on Monday, you would change at once. Sensible women would! Yet there are some women who still wash clothes in the old-fashioned, hard-rubbing way, just because their mothers taught them so.

Are you wearing out yourself and your clothes boiling and rubbing? Why not try Fels-Naptha soap? It's the new, modern way of washing. Use it in cold or lukewarm water—no boiling or hard-rubbing—and your clothes will be cleaner, whiter, and wear longer.

Follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

NEVINS CONVICTED

Chauffeur Found Guilty of Manslaughter

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—James H. Nevins, a taxi driver, was convicted yesterday of manslaughter in the second degree and served a term of fifteen years in the State Prison for the death of a woman struck at 17th street and the Bronx on June 7 by an automobile driven by him.

William A. Brady, the theatrical manager, happened to pass by his car when Mallon was knocked over. He testified yesterday that the machine of Nevins was going about thirty-five miles an hour and that after he saw it strike a middle-aged man he ordered his chauffeur, James Hesterstrom, to catch the taxi-cab. Brady first alighted and did what he could for the dying man. He took him to his own machine to Roosevelt hospital, where he died in a few hours.

Nevins' defense was that it was an accident and unavoidable. The case was prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney McCormick and Westwick. Mallon had for fifteen years been connected with the health department, he lived at 25 Virginia place, Brooklyn, and is survived by his wife.

RUNAWAY GIRL

WAS PICKED UP BY NEW YORK DETECTIVE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Gladys Greenwald, a 16-year-old girl whose disappearance from her home at 539 East 138th street on Sept. 21 was reported to the police of the Alexander Avenue station, was found last night at Seventh avenue and 17th street by Detective Tierney, who had been assigned to the case. The girl ran when the detective called her by name and after she was caught refused to tell where she had been, saying that she had just returned from Doughiesville. Her mother, the wife of Michael Greenwald, a shoe dealer, had no more success in getting the girl to tell her story and the young woman was arrested as an incorrigible.

The girl had been a silk operator in an 45th street factory.

PRESIDENT WM. H. TAFT

Defines the Relation of the Government and Business

WATERLOO, Ia., Sept. 29.—President Taft in a speech defining the relation of the government to business, announced that the trust prosecutions begun by the department of justice at Washington would continue despite the recent criticism that business was being made to suffer.

The president said: My Fellow Citizens: I wish to invite your attention to the relation of the federal government and the federal statutes to the business of this country, its legality and its prosperity. There are four most important points at which the policies of congress and the federal executive touch the business of this country in such a vital way that the people are entitled to have the greatest care, industry, and application characterize government action in respect to them. They are, first, in respect to interstate commerce and the regulation of railroads and the rates of transportation between the states; second, in the enforcement of the laws forbidding combinations to monopolize interstate trade in industrial companies; third, in the amendment of tariff legislation affecting chiefly the manufacturers of the country; and, fourth, in the furnishing for the use of the business of the country a proper banking and currency system which shall automatically give an elastic currency, expanding and contracting according to the business methods, and inspiring a confidence in the business community which shall prevent panics.

First, in respect to the regulation of railroads and the prompt remedying of unreasonable and unduly discriminating rates, we have progressed far toward a satisfactory solution. In the last administration the power was given to the interstate commerce commission to fix railway rates. It having been decided that the functions of the interstate commerce commission, then conferred, went only so far as to find that a rate was unreasonable, but did not include the power of fixing a reasonable rate. When the first regular session of congress met in my administration I urged upon the commission the necessity for further legislation looking to a more complete control and regulation of railways in respect to rates than had heretofore been given. I recommended the establishment of a commerce court, which should absorb all the reviewing jurisdiction which circuit courts had theretofore had, to consist of five members, with the hope that this might secure greater expedition and greater uniformity in ruling and a prompter disposition by the supreme court of cases passed upon by the interstate commerce commission.

I recommend that cases affecting the interstate commerce should be put under the direct control of the department of justice, and that the proceedings after the order had been made in the interstate commerce commission should be brought for or against the United States, and not against the commission, as heretofore.

I recommended that shippers should have some easy and practical method of ascertaining a rate applicable to any proposed shipment in advance in writing with a penalty for a failure to furnish it.

I recommended that the commission be authorized to act on its own initiative, as well as upon the complaint of any individual respecting the reasonableness of any rate or the fairness of any practice, and that the commission should be empowered to pass upon the classification of rates, that having been left in doubt under the previous law.

I also invited attention to the injurious delay of remedy which was occasioned to the shippers whenever unreasonable advances in rates were made. The interstate commerce commission might find the advance unreasonable only after a long hearing, and so that it had gone into effect, and after the unreasonable rates had been collected for a considerable period. I suggested that the interstate commerce commission might have power to suspend such an order for 60 days and look into its reasonableness, and that if it found unreasonable it should not be permitted.

I invited attention also to the complaint of the shippers that they did not have the power to direct the route over which their shipment should pass to destination. I recommended that this be given them, subject to such reasonable regulation as the commission might prescribe.

All these provisions in one form or another were enacted into the law. In addition, the house of representatives added to the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission the power to declare reasonable rates in respect of telegraph, telephone, and express companies. A modification was made in the senate regarding the long and short haul clause, which gave more discretion to the interstate commerce commission than that which it had heretofore exercised under the decisions of the supreme court. The time during which the commission could suspend the raising of a rate was enlarged to four months, and after that, if necessary, to six months longer. Instead of 60 days which I had recommended, I had submitted the question of the proper amendments to the attorney general and solicitor general, to the chief of the interstate commerce commission, to Congressman Proctor, and to Senator Townsend, then a member of the interstate commerce committee of the house of representatives, and I recommended to congress for inclusion in the bill the provisions which they recommended to me. The bill was enacted in the form in which I have indicated. There were certain amendments that I recommended that were not approved. One was a recommendation that no railroad company be allowed to acquire stock in a competing railroad company, with such provisions for existing arrangements as would obviate confusion. In accordance with the platform of the republican party, and the urgent messages of my predecessor, was that competing railroads should be able to make temporary arrangements for common rates between common points without giving them any binding character as contracts. It was thought, however, that this would seriously affect the operation of the anti-trust act, and it was not approved.

Another recommendation which I made was one forbidding interstate commerce railways to issue bonds and stocks without permission of the interstate commerce commission. This provision was substituted a section providing a commission to be appointed by the president to make a report upon the feasibility and wisdom of such a provision, and that report will be submitted to congress at the next session.

The Board's Power
I think it is now generally conceded by those who understand the operation of the present law that the regulatory power of the interstate commerce commission is sufficiently great to remedy generally the injustices to shippers which gave rise to the demand for legislation. Except the introduction of a limitation as to the power of issuing stocks and bonds, I do not think it wise to add to the present statutes.

The history of the operation of the interstate commerce act is interesting and instructive. Soon after the inception of the statute the railroads began to treat the interstate commerce commission quite contemptuously. The system of unlawful rebates was very widespread among them, and the neglect of the law was apparent to every one interested in its operation. This condition aroused the indignation of the people and pressed the representatives on to further restrictions. In fact, it gave rise to a prejudice against the railroads from which they have suffered in some cases unjustly. Now I feel that they have become reconciled to the facts; they have come to recognize that the public insists upon regulating their business and seeing to it through the interstate commerce commission that they do not violate the law. I believe and hope that the spirit of vindictiveness against these great arteries of public commerce which the indignation of the public naturally prompted in their representatives is gradually disappearing.

Occasionally one hears the complaint that there is no room for enterprise among railroads; that there is no inducement to further investment and the extension of their lines; that some body else is running their railroads for them; and that all hope of prosperous business in transportation has disappeared. On the one hand as that of spite against a railroad because it is a railroad is on the other. We all have to face the condition that the public insists, and has a right to insist, upon the close regulation of the railroads in view of past and of the danger of their recurrence in the future if vigilance is abated, and that nothing but such regulation will secure the compliance with the law that the public insists on having. That regulation is not restrictive of wide discretion in railroad management, and there is and ought to be sufficient scope for enterprise, for close economies in the business of the common carrier, and for the securing of a reasonable profit for the shareholders, to make the railroad business as great a field as any other business genius, and it has not only secured a railroad management. This takes time. Many rates are still unreasonable or discriminating; but the point I am making is that we now have effective and impartial machinery in the present organization and power of the commission for effecting those reforms without additional restrictive legislation.

Trust Question
Second. With respect to the trusts, I have elsewhere given my view of what the decision of the supreme court is. It in effect declares that the anti-trust statute punishes every combination or restraint of interstate trade that is intended and has the necessary effect to control prices, exclude competition and establish a partial or complete monopoly of interstate trade in any merchandise, and that a bill of equity may be filed against the offending combination or corporation which will lead to disintegration of that combination, if found unlawful, and a division of it into a sufficient number of parts under separate ownership to insure competition and to maintain it by the continuing force of perpetual injunction against the resumption of the unlawful bond and purpose of the combination. Whether it will be possible to secure a national preparation of parts under closer supervision of those corporations engaged in interstate trade, and for their greater security when they pursue business in accordance with the law, I am unable to say, because the constitutional views of the present majority in the lower house are prohibitive against the raising of a rate of federal injunction with respect to corporations. Be that as it may, the business community now knows, or ought to know, where it stands. The court declines to hold that competition is impossible under modern business conditions, but it insists that it must be given full opportunity for operation, and that any combined effort affecting interstate trade looking to its suppression is contrary to law. In other words, business must face the necessity of throwing away the crutch of combination against competition in its further progress. When this rule is recognized, when the corporations that have offended the law are disintegrated sufficiently to enable competition to have full play, then there is no reason why business should not go on unimpeded.

Department of Justice
Criticism has been uttered in no measured tone against the activity of the department of justice in the institution of prosecutions and bills of equity under the antitrust law, on the ground that it is hurting business. It is the every duty of the executive to enforce the law, and as long as such combinations exist and are known to exist to the law officers of the government in any way they would be lacking in their duty if they did not prosecute them. They are under no orders to train the prosecution of trusts like the bringing of any other suits which are within the scope and duty of the department of justice, and I must declare to you that there is no discretion which would enable the attorney general and his assistants to say the hand of the government in respect of such violations of law. I do not think it need be long continued, because I believe that the business community itself is rapidly taking in the effect of the decisions of the supreme court, and that we may expect a cessation of letters on the attitude of business men toward this step.

I have heard the severest criticism, from some men engaged in business, of the antitrust law. It is difficult for me to argue with them, because I do not understand how their position can be supported in the slightest. They seem to think that there ought to be some measure making legal the control of competition and limited monopoly, some status quo which shall establish a line between those monopolies that are reasonable and those that are not—those that are benevolent and those that are unbecomingly. No such line is possible, and the supreme court has expressly so decided. Mourning over a condition which is in fact a reality, and which they realize that their views in this respect are really changed, their complaints must fall upon deaf ears.

I have seen arguments based upon the attitude of foreign governments toward great enterprises in which it is pointed out that they have encouraged, founded, and protected combinations of this character. That is true. There is a tendency among some foreign governments to encourage what they call trusts, to take care of themselves in the management of part themselves in the management of the trusts, to fix prices, and to demand upon governmental control to secure their reasonable conduct; but such a system with us is absolutely impossible, and it might as well be understood. The countries to which reference is made are veering toward state socialism. This, indeed, is the logical end of the evil of private monopolies, because if private companies are to be allowed to manage everything and fix prices, then there is every reason why the control thus exercised by them should be transferred from them to the government, and this is state socialism.

Third. With respect to tariff laws. The business of the country today rests upon a protective tariff basis. Everyone knows that, and everyone must be aware that a change of tariffs in such a way that those businesses that are dependent upon protection for their existence shall lose it must injure present conditions in all business, whether dependent on the tariff or not. The change, therefore, from a protective tariff to a tariff for revenue only is necessarily hostile to existing business, and must lead to business depression and at least temporary business disaster. But there are many, and I am among those, who believe that protection in the past has been too high, and that it is possible to lower the tariff so as not to interfere with business, give a living rate of protection to existing enterprises, and yet prevent excessive prices growing out of tariff duties, and in carrying out such an attitude, essential that the interests of business should be guarded by close investigation into their needs as to a protective tariff, and this emphasizes the importance and vital necessity of the maintenance of a tariff commission and of its ascertainment of the facts with respect to business and the difference between the cost of production here and the cost of production abroad before tariff changes are made.

One of the prominent and useful features of the administration of the government in Germany, in Austria, and in France is the existence of under officials constituting a tariff bureau or commission who follow closely the changes in trade in their own country, and in other countries through consular bureaus and otherwise, and who keep in constant readiness for use a digested mass of information which enables them to advise the government with the utmost accuracy what changes in the tariff law would help the trade of their own country, and what the effect of the changes will be. They exercise the closest guardianship over the business of the country, with the hope of preserving its prosperity and expanding its volume. They would no more think of changing a policy like that of the protective tariff to a free-trade policy by one stroke, breaking down the business of the country in many directions, than they would of blowing up their battlements or destroying their fortifications.

Tariff Board
We have had in the past two years, since the agitation and the excitement growing out of the passage of the Payne bill, a strong movement toward the establishment of a tariff board or commission which, by furnishing accurate information as to tariff matters and the comparative costs of foreign and home production in respect to manufactures and products, should enable congress to act with care toward the existing industries of the country and to save them as far as possible in any changes that might be made. Under circumstances which it is not now necessary for me to repeat and by appropriations furnished by congress, I have been able to establish a tariff board, and I have decided to promote the passage of tariff measures framed without the knowledge that within a few months this tariff board can furnish, and I have done so because I thought the business of the country was entitled to better and more complete information than the injurious effect of which upon the industries of the country could not be calculated.

Fourth, and finally, we have a very lame banking and currency system. The theory of the issue of bank notes, based on the deposit of government bonds in early national banks, is that this will increase and decrease according to the needs of the money market; that these national banks will deposit bonds and that their notes when money is needed, and will withdraw the bonds and reduce the circulation when the demand for money is light. Such has not been the result, and it is due to the fact that the bonds which were issued for the purpose of enabling them to be used as deposits paid only 2 per cent, a rate which is about 1 per cent below the regular market rate for government bonds in this country, and therefore prevents the disposition and use of the bonds for any other purpose than the securing of bank notes. This gives a stiffness to the deposit and withdrawal of such bonds and a rigidity to the amount of currency dependent on them that deprives the system of the elasticity which is desired.

of the bank here joined the local committee in a cordial welcome. The committee was composed of business men of nearly all shades of political belief.

WESTERN GOVERNORS WILL MAKE LOOP THE LOOP OF THE EAST TO TELL THE GLORIES OF THEIR SECTION

By GEORGE WAUGH ARNOLD.

WITH the dual intention of telling eastern folk at the coming land shows in Chicago, Pittsburg and New York just how great the west is and of cautiously pecking around for what good points are still left in the effort to take back home for immediate adoption, thirteen governors of the "wild and woolly" will begin a $75,000 railroad trip from Omaha on Nov. 20.

The Hill and Harbison lines have offered extra service, and the Panama exposition will help out with literature, and some of the governors are really afraid that by the time they disband in St. Paul on Dec. 15 they will have no homes to go to because of the rush to the Pacific slope of the unfortunate $5,000,000 persons who now exist east of the Rockies.

For eight of the thirteen it will be a duplicate trip, because Governors Hawley, Hay, Norris, Spry, Carey, Vessey, Shafroth and Aldrich were in the governors' conference which met at New Jersey from Sept. 12 to 16 and questioned the infallibility of the United States federal courts.

Politics Barred, They Say.

In each state their luxuriously appointed special train goes through a stop will be made at the capital city and a visit paid to the governor. He will be asked to come along and will be entertained royally for as long as he cares to "stick to the big show."

The governors are agreeing among themselves not to mention politics in any way whatever while on the trip, either to one another or to the executives of eastern states. Politics will be a tabu subject, and all the governors will "pull" for the west—not for politicians.

The fact that in mentioning this agreement most of the governors are afflicted with a drooping of the lower eyelid has nothing whatever to do with this story.

A Fee to Secrecy.

As to the personal characteristics of the soon to be guests it may be said that Hay of Washington is first of all an opponent of secrecy. He has had his executive offices so reconstructed that any one wanting to talk with him has to do so in full view of whoever may saunter along the hallway. This is exceedingly disconcerting to the old line political leaders who have been accustomed in getting the ear of the executive in secret, of being entertained and heard in the privacy of the inside office and of being let out at the rear door as not to be brought into contact with waiting newspaper men. But it is the Hay system, and it will last as long as he is governor.

And he takes a personal interest in every detail concerning his domain. Not long ago he looked out of his office window and saw a force of men just beginning to dig out one of the big trees along the street line on the opposite side of Capitol park one of Olympia's beauty spots.

Learning on his desk a stack of bills sent by the legislature for his approval, the governor rushed to the office of the board of control to ask whether the state had consented to their destruction. He was informed that the trees were in line with the proposed new curb to be laid when the street was paved and that the state board under the preceding administration had consented to their removal.

"Well, you go over and tell those men not to cut them down until I can look into the matter," said the governor to a member of the board. "I cannot sit here and see them destroyed without being convinced that their destruction is necessary."

The governor's message was delivered, the people of Olympia took the matter up with the city authorities and the plans for the street improvement were slightly altered so as to permit the trees to stand.

Burke's First Night Out.

Governor Burke of North Dakota ascribes all his success to his widow, mother and never tired of telling the story of how she purchased him the first night he stayed out late, the "land" being the fondish bear of 5 p. m.

When young Burke reached the door of his mother's home he found it barred. Within the little oil lamp was burning brightly. The boy heard his companions hurrying to their homes through the darkness, and he shuddered when he found that the latch-string was not hanging without his own door.

The kindly, yet stern, voice of his mother was heard within, and her word was law to the little household. John Burke had disobeyed the law, and punishment must necessarily follow, and here was the seat of punishment that the mother inflicted upon her erring son: John Burke was obliged to sit outside the door of his own home until the sun rose next morning. Within sat the mother, grieving that her boy had disobeyed her; without sat the son, grieving that the law had fallen thus heavily upon him.

It was a lesson, however, which John Burke never forgot, and the punishment at hand the desired effect, for he was never guilty of disobeying his parent after that time.

Ross From Chere Boy.

Governor Eberhart is the typical self-made man. He can never be President, because he was born in Sweden and didn't appear on the United States map until he was ten years old. Then he was hired out as chere boy to a minister, the Rev. E. T. Quam, who, noticing the boy's brightness, gave him the privilege of his library. The boy made good use of it, and then worked his way through college. Then he studied law and put his first earnings in a stone quarry. The company failed, but Eberhart stuck by it, paid off the old debt, accumulated all the stock, put the quarry on a paying basis and is independently wealthy today.

Repudiated Repeating.

Governor Shafroth will go down in history as the only man who ever resigned a seat in the house of representatives because he believed he had been elected by fraud. The interest in the case is intensified because the women voters of Colorado were accused of ballot box stuffing, and one "indy repeater" was actually arrested.

Governor Vessey, who is the orator of the party, started his financial fortunes by raising sheep and his political fortunes by sticking to the Republican party. He has what the Irish call "a thrush within his throat," and he can expatiate on the glories of the free and untrammelled west until his audience goes out and buys railroad tickets.

Giant of the Party.

Governor Carey, who was Wyoming's first senator, is a graduate of Union college and the law department of the University of Pennsylvania. He is the biggest man physically of the party, and many tales are told of his physical prowess when the "bad men" made threats at him when he went to the territory in 1871 as United States district attorney.

Governors West, Aldrich, Norris, Spry, Johnson, Hawley and Odell have had nothing picturesque in their careers, but they are fine exponents of the pushing, muckless, self elevating western type.

Pretty Princess Patricia Will Help Duke of Connaught to Govern Canada

Duchess of Connaught, duke on inspection tour, accompanied by Admiral Curzon, Hesse, and the beautiful Princess Patricia.

In the early phases in Europe that "dolls for part."

Next will make Ottawa the Mecca of American society this winter, and invitations to the functions at Rideau Hall will be sought for with all the eagerness and determination that mark the old prospectors.

And to her beauty is added the glimmer of having raised the hands of the Duke of Cornwall (when he was really King, King Alfonso of Spain, the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, Prince Ferdinand of Germany, Prince of Sweden, the Count of Turin, the Duke of Parma and the Marquis of Anglessey for his own country.

All of which is, in the parlance of the day, "riches for a young woman Patricia, said by common consent to be twenty-five years.

Princess Patricia also has, by special dispensation from her cousin, King George, what no other girl of her rank possesses—namely, her own lady-in-waiting and traveling companion, a Miss Clementine Adams. This gives her the right to go about incognito and journey when and where she pleases without having to bother with all the pomp and circumstance of royalty.

This being stated around to what some advanced thinkers might call "immateral and unnecessary jobs of honor" is no new thing for the Duke. His royal birth is against him. Even his soldiers sing:

"What's the royal dower?" set I.
"What's the royal dower?" set I.
O, let's a piece of the royal blood,
And they checked the "brave old duke."

All his life he has been a social success. Was there a royal wedding, christening, funeral anywhere in Europe, was there a coronation to be held, a statue to be unveiled, a medal or cup to be awarded—it was the Duke of Connaught who did the honors, graciously and with perfect tact.

He wanted to lead armies, and they sent him to Madrid to congratulate Alfonso and his spouse on the birth of the baby.

This will be his second time in Canada, as he passed across the North American continent in 1896 from Victoria, B. C., on his trip homeward from an official visit to India, China and Japan. He was lavishly entertained and delighted the officials at Montreal with his urbanity.

The year that still shows in the middle of his forehead was obtained through the same urbanity. He was in 1882 on his way to India when at the desert one evening aboard the steamship a discussion arose as to the best way of cracking walnuts. This led to an exhibition of odd ways and finally an Australian planter held a walnut firmly in place on the table with his forehead and asked the Duke to do the same. The Duke did so, and the walnut cracked perfectly and everybody applauded greatly.

The Duke urbanely decided that he would master that stunt for use at some royal gathering, but of course he couldn't try it in public much less ask the duchess to watch him over the head.

So he pocketed a few nuts and later in the evening slipped away from his friends, put a nut on the table and tapped himself on the head. But he either hit too hard or his forehead slipped for the nut didn't crack and the ship's surgeon had to close up a very nasty wound.

Still, when the Duke is in full uniform and bedecked with medals the rear matches very nicely, except of course to those who know the walnut story.

China's Crack Cruiser Receives Hearty Reception at American Ports

NOTHING has so pleased the thousands of Chinamen within our gates as the visit to the United States of the cruiser Hai Chi of the Chinese imperial navy. Although the war vessel was able to pay visits only along the Atlantic coast, the joy of the yellow men extended clear across to the Pacific, and there were banquets and fireworks generally until she left for England to escort a new sister ship, the Yung Sue, home by way of the Suez canal.

The Hai Chi, or Protector of the Seas, is the first vessel flying the yellow dragon flag ever to enter American waters, and the first sight to attract attention was that not one of the crew of 450, from Rear Admiral Ching Pih Kwang to the humblest coal passer, wore a cane.

The second was the absolutely up to date brass band, which played Sousa marches almost as well as our Marine band at Washington.

The third was a group of boy scouts from New York's Chinatown attired in the familiar khaki uniforms, slouch hats, puttees and all, which reminds one that the uniforms of both officers and men of the crew of the Hai Chi are modeled after those of our navy.

And as every officer from the little midshipman up speaks English fluently the total effect upon the thousands of American visitors was startling in very truth.

One silly woman, walking over to one of the midshipmen, said coyly: "Hello, little boy. You like New York?" "Madam," replied the youngster, with perfect gravity, "I have long been an ardent admirer of your wonderful metropolis. I was graduated here from Columbia several years ago."

Kind friends assisted the foolish person to a seat.

While the Astor yacht Nonta passed by on her way down the North river with the colonel and his bride aboard, some one asked Admiral Ching his views on our marriage and divorce methods.

He paused a moment, then smiled broadly and said: "It seems to me there is something wrong somewhere in your method. You see, the men and women meet and know each other well before marriage, and yet with all this preliminary knowledge they make many mistakes, and thus you have so many divorces. Now tell me, a Chinese, who knows only theoretically of these things, what is wrong with the American marriages. Why don't they last, as the Chinese marriages do?"

cur in China, and yet no Chinese woman and man who marry have ever seen each other prior to their wedding day."

Rear Admiral Ching knows much at first hand of America, for his father was forty years ago one of the richest and most successful merchants of San Francisco. The son was brought up here at a tender age and remained in San Francisco until he was ten, and yet, after all, we prefer to live here and live slowly."

The Hai Chi left the honor of receiving the first salute fired to any foreign vessel by the new United States dreadnaught Utah. The Chinese ship looked like a child's abacus the giant American, but her bearing was truly naval.

"I wonder if it is because you live so much faster than we. And then the American food is much richer than and yet, after all, we prefer to live here and live slowly."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

HALBOA DISCOVERS PACIFIC
 SEPTEMBER 29.—Vasco Nunez de Balboa had used up all his pocket money in Spain and decided that he would see how the new world would turn out. He landed at Panama and began to ask the Indians questions on his fingers. In some sign language they conveyed to him the information that a large pond lay to the west. Thinking a party of soldiers and some guides they started over mountains and stream and on September 29, Balboa got his first peep at the Pacific. He claimed it and all its shores in the name of the king of Spain. He entered his discovery the South Sea but when Ferdinand Magellan came along six years after and sailed across as far as the Philippines he changed the name to Pacific and that name stuck. Balboa married the daughter of Duxilla who stood high at court and when Balboa got it into his head that Balboa was getting too gay in the new world, he had him beheaded on a charge of intent to rebel.

MILLINERY DISPLAYS

Attracted Thousands of Women to Stores

There were many very pleasing millinery exhibits in the city today and thousands of ladies were attracted to the different stores. Below will be found descriptions of the leading displays.

MARGARET PIKE

Miss Pike's exhibit of millinery of fall and winter styles is very beautiful and it is surprising what elegance is achieved in the creation of her millinery when the moderate prices are considered. Miss Pike is an expert milliner and is really a headliner when it comes to designing millinery, and she always has in her employ as milliners some of the most expert in the city. Millinery is not her only forte, as dress and hat making are an important feature in her establishment, and one that has grown into great popularity. If you want to get anything in the line of millinery or in the coat making art, Miss Pike's parlors should not be overlooked. Her millinery display without going into detail compares favorably with anything seen on the tour of inspection. Miss Pike is located in the Chalfoux building. Take the elevator.

THE FASHION

The fashion millinery store at 115 Merrimack street has grown into wonderful prominence and popularity since it has been under the management of Miss O'Brien. There is no more attractive display in the city in the millinery line both in the windows and in the interior of the store than at this popular millinery establishment. This place has always made a specialty of millinery goods, and for years it has stood in the front line in that particular branch of the millinery business. Miss O'Brien is ably assisted by several sales ladies as well as expert milliners and it is no wonder that the business of this popular parlor is increasing each season. Judging from the way the ladies were placing orders yesterday it is an assured fact it will be a case of busy night and day for several weeks to come. The ladies are cordially invited.

HEAD & SHAW

Head & Shaw were for years on Merrimack street, but have been for the past year located around the corner of John street. Their reputation for fine millinery and all the correct styles is well known to the ladies of this city and vicinity. When looking for the latest and best in millinery Head & Shaw's is the place that the ladies have on their visiting list, and yesterday was no exception from former years. Their place was packed all day and evening, and undoubtedly will be the rest of the week as their display is worth going quite a distance to see. Their goods are of the best, both in workmanship and the material, and the prices the lowest, perhaps, in the city. If you are looking for style you are sure to get just what you are looking for when you call at Head & Shaw's. Take the rest of the millinery tour and you will continue throughout the week.

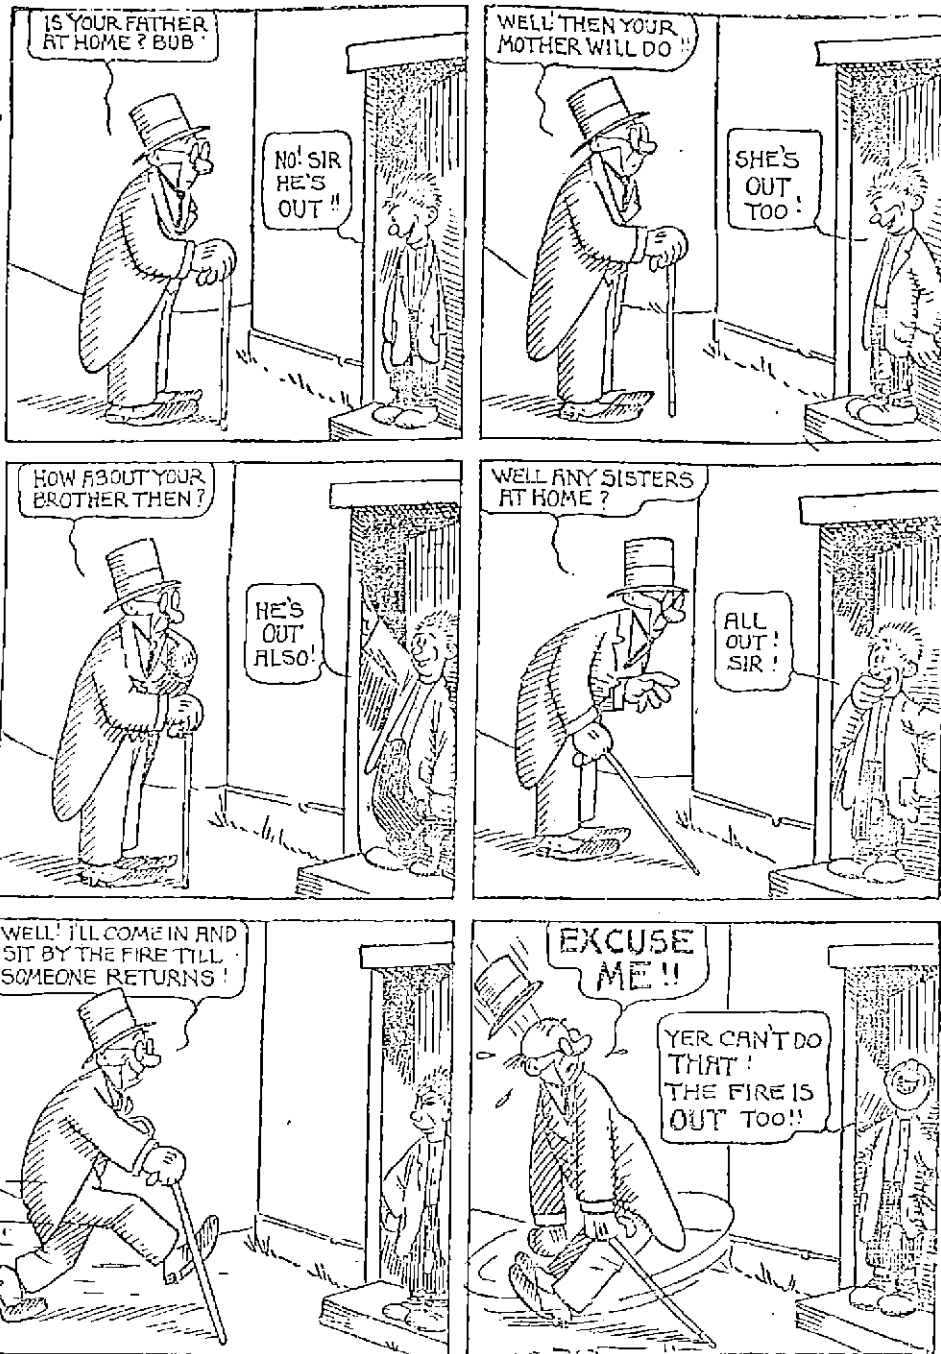

MISS BLENNERHASSETT

Miss Klitte Blennerhassett's grand fall and winter millinery exhibit was like all her previous displays, very interesting to the ladies of Lowell and the suburbs who appreciate fine millinery. Miss Blennerhassett is in a class by herself, that is to say, with her millinery and millinery goods are of the best, both in workmanship and the material, and the prices the lowest, perhaps, in the city. If you are looking for style you are sure to get just what you are looking for when you call at Head & Shaw's. Take the rest of the millinery tour and you will continue throughout the week.

MISS LENA LALUMIERE

Miss Lena Lalumiere's grand millinery display in the Old City Hall building is the place where the ladies never fail to call when out on a tour of inspection, as they know full well from the experience of past years, that Miss Lalumiere will always have something that will bring delight to the ladies when on their tour of inspection. This season she has made an exceptional effort to get the latest Parisian and London as well as New York creations in the millinery art, and her large and always attractive reception parlors delight the ladies, and enable them to revel in the grandeur to be seen there. Miss Lalumiere and her salesladies were kept on the jump all day receiving compliments and orders. This year, no doubt, will be a record breaker for receiving orders. The exhibit will continue throughout the day and evening, and all day Saturday. All are welcome to attend.

EXCUSE ME!

anybody who wanted to get fine millinery at the lowest possible price to call on Madam Caron. Don't fail to see her beautiful display. It will continue throughout the week.

Turkey and Italy at War

THE PALMER CASE

Was Given to the Jury at 2.30
O'Clock This Afternoon

The case of Lawyer Jackson Palmer, charged with having committed perjury in testimony offered before the grand jury when it was sitting on the investigation of the conduct of the officials of Middlesex county, which was started before Judge McLaughlin in the criminal session of the superior court at East Cambridge the day before yesterday, was resumed this morning.

All of the testimony was in yesterday afternoon and Lawyer Burke, argued on points of law. This morning arguments were resumed and concluded at noon, and the court decided that the only matter which the jury would have to decide would be as to the truth or falsity of the statement alleged to have been made by Palmer, that a railroad ticket used by members of the Shaw family was charged to the account of the Lowell fall.

Late yesterday afternoon Lawyer John C. Burke, counsel for the defense, introduced the following sworn affidavit of Chief Justice Aiken in support of Mr. Palmer's statement that he was an unwilling witness before the grand jury.

"I, John A. Aiken, of Greenfield, in the county of Hampden and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, on oath depose and say that I am chief justice of the superior court for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; that I have been requested by the defendant, Jackson Palmer, to attend and testify in his behalf in the above entitled cause; that, by reason of official and personal engagements, it is impossible for me to attend on Wednesday, Sept. 27, 1911, the date when I have been requested to appear for the purpose of testifying.

That, some time during last winter, on a date which I am unable to place, I was waited upon in the chambers of the superior court at the court house in Boston in the county of Suffolk by two or three gentlemen whom I had not heretofore known, and I am now unable to testify definitely who any of said gentlemen were, but I have reason to believe, and do believe, that one of said gentlemen was the defendant in this case, Jackson Palmer, Esq. That the gentleman who acted as spokesman, and whom I do not now know, but who I now believe was said Palmer, stated to me certain facts relative to an investigation then being or about to be conducted by the grand jury for the county of Middlesex concerning officials of said county. He further stated that he and the other gentlemen would be summoned as witnesses before said grand jury in such investigation, but that he and said other gentlemen were very reluctant so to testify. He stated his reasons for such reluctance, but I am unable at this time definitely to state them or their substance. He requested me under these circumstances to advise him whether there was any way that he and the other gentlemen could lawfully and properly avoid testifying in said investigation. I advised him in substance that, under the circumstances, it was his and their duty to attend the grand jury if summoned and to testify as to matters within their knowledge.

Case Goes to Jury

Arguments were made by Lawyer John C. Burke for the defense and District Attorney John J. Higgins for the government, after which the judge charged the jury and the jurors retired at 2.40 o'clock this afternoon. At the time of going to press the jury had not returned.

PANIC IN THEATRE

Prevented by Actors and Firemen

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Almost at the end of the first act of "The Concert" at the Belasco theatre, yesterday afternoon, smoke, seemingly coming from under the stage, made a blur across the footlights. It came suddenly and the odor was very strong. The theatre was comfortably filled with a matinee audience, chiefly of women, and the women in the front seats stood up and grabbed hurriedly for their hats. A few men in the middle of the theatre said, "Sit down!" The women were starting for the door when a woman said sharply, "Please sit down!"

Janet Beecher and William Morris were on the stage. Miss Beecher as Helen Arany and Morris as Dr. Dallas, and the scene was the interview in which he is assuring her that he knows that his wife has gone with her husband, the music master, to a bungalow in the Catskills.

Miss Beecher interrupted the stage conversation to say to the audience, "Won't you please sit down?" Morris said, "Yes, sit down." Then they went on with their dialogue as if there was no smoke and nothing unusual.

About the same time a horrid-looking uniformed fireman appeared in an aisle at the footlights. "There is no danger," he said. "Everybody keep their seats. The smoke is from the street."

Miss Beecher and Morris kept right on as if nothing out of the ordinary had happened. There were a few handclaps for the fireman. When the curtain came down Miss Beecher and Morris were warmly applauded.

There was still evidence of smoke, however, and Wm. J. Dean, the stage director, came on the stage and assured the audience there was no danger. The smoke had seeped into the theatre from a caldron which was being used in the repair in the street. The manager of the theatre said he had complained to the fire department that the thing shouldn't be allowed while a performance was going on and a promise had been made that there would be no smoke. Another complaint was made to the city officials.

"This" said one woman, leaving the theatre, "has been a most thrilling afternoon."

THE ITALIAN FLEET

Has Blockaded the Entire Coast of Tripoli and Cyrene

ROME, Sept. 29.—It is officially announced here that Italy and Turkey are in a state of war, beginning at half past two o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, Sept. 29. The reason is given that Turkey has failed to meet the demands contained in the Italian ultimatum.

Italy will provide for the safety of Italians and all other foreigners in Tripoli and Cyrene, using to this end all the means at her disposal. The blockade of the entire coast of Tripoli and Cyrene will be undertaken immediately and a notification of this act will be sent to all neutral powers.

TURKISH FORCE

NOT TO OPPOSE THE LANDING OF ITALIANS

PARIS, Sept. 29.—A despatch to the Temps from Constantinople says the Turkish cabinet at the conclusion of its session last night decided that Turkey would not oppose with force an Italian landing at Tripoli and that this decision was sent to Rome as a reply to the Italian ultimatum.

Another despatch to the Temps from Rome says that the Turkish charge d'affaires there called on the Italian minister of state this morning and remained some time. He informed the foreign minister that Turkey had decided not to oppose the landing of Italians at Tripoli.

The foreign minister accompanied the Turkish official to the door and then proceeded immediately to the meeting of the cabinet.

WANTED DELAY

TURKEY SENT A NOTE TO THE POWERS

ROME, Sept. 29.—Italy has declared war on Turkey. The official announcement was made late this afternoon. It declared that the two countries were in a state of war beginning at half past two o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, September 29. This is the hour at which the Italian ultimatum to Turkey expired and followed the papers had issued special editions announcing that the Italian fleet was moving in plain sight of the coast of Tripoli and intimating that war might be declared at any moment. The minister of foreign affairs, Signor Di Giolitti, received the Turkish reply this morning and immediately went into conference with his associates in the ministry. It is understood that the Ottoman government completely evaded a direct answer demanded by this government, which had set forth in its ultimatum that Turkey must say that she would not resist the proposed occupation of Tripoli and Cyrene. Instead, the Porte sent a conciliatory note suggesting further delay.

It was known that at the same time Turkey transmitted a note to the powers in which it is assumed that she represented herself as the injured party and by inference at least sought their intervention.

The royal government decided to stand absolutely by its ultimatum of yesterday and in the absence of the reply called for, to declare Italy and Turkey in a state of war from the hour that the ultimatum of 24 hours expired.

CAUSE OF TROUBLE

THAT RESULTED IN WAR BETWEEN ITALY AND TURKEY

ROME, Sept. 29.—The trouble between Turkey and Italy which culminated this afternoon in a declaration of war at Rome dates back to 1878, when, with the making of the treaty concluding the Russo-Turkish war, the powers were understood to have agreed to permit Italy a "pacific penetration of Tripoli." Turkey claims that this right has been respected ever since. Italy has colonized Tripoli until her interests in that African province are very great. She has asserted, however, that her subjects have been mistreated by the Ottoman authority and constantly discriminated against.

Frequent disputes have arisen but the prolonged negotiations have never resulted satisfactorily to Italy. At the time that the Franco-German dispute regarding Morocco was being pressed, Italy turned her attention again to Tripoli and in subsequent negotiations with Constantinople set forth that many outrages against her subjects had been perpetrated without redress. She assumed a decisive attitude and presently began the mobilization of her army and navy. A few days ago the first squadron of the Italian navy was sent to Tripoli waters and it has since patrolled that coast. At the same time Turkey was warned not to send soldiers or munitions of war to Tripoli. A Turkish transport bearing a few men and arms and munitions later arrived at Tripoli from Constantinople but was not molested on the ground that she had sailed before the Italian warning had been received.

Italy in the meantime brought her army to the Italian coast, where the soldiers were placed on board transports ready to proceed to Tripoli. This second squadron is destined for Salonika.

Yesterday Italy presented an ultimatum at Constantinople announcing her intention of occupying Tripoli and Cyrene and demanding that within 24 hours Turkey reply that she would not offer a resistance to this action. The reply of the Turkish cabinet was not found satisfactory. The declaration of war followed.

Italy's standing army in 1910-11 numbered approximately 235,000 men and 14,000 officers but a far greater number could be put in the field in case of necessity. The Italian navy consists in vessels commissioned, built or building of 15 battleships, nine armored cruisers, 17 unarmored cruisers and gun vessels, 36 destroyers, an equal number of first class torpedo boats and 22 submarines.

In the naval force there are approximately 31,000 men. The fleet commanders are:

Mediterranean fleet—Vice Admiral De Gressis; Spezia, Vice Admiral Moreno; Venice, Vice Admiral Viotti; Modigliana, Rear Admiral Favarelli; Taranto, Vice Admiral Capaldi.

As a whole, the Italian navy is generally ranked fifth among nations. As seamen the Italians are skilled and ingenious and have constructed some remarkable war vessels. Naval lists show that Turkey has a fighting strength of nine coast defense ironclads, five protected cruisers, six torpedo vessels, one gunboat, 21 torpedo boat destroyers, 27 torpedo boats and two submarines. As compared with the greater nations this array is a negligible quantity. There are 31,000 sailors as against 9000 marines. English and American officers play an important part in Turkish naval affairs. The Ottoman army as a result of the revolution which resulted in a victory of the Young Turks is now in process of reorganization but a military council has been called into existence and a great deal of modern equipment has been purchased.

The total fighting strength is close to a million men and by the existing recruiting laws all Mussulmans are liable to military service. Christians and certain sects have paid the exemption tax.

The American cruiser Chester is now on her way to Tripoli and should reach there early in October. Her mission when she left American waters was to afford protection to a party of American archaeologists under Prof. Richard Norton, who contemplated excavations in the neighborhood of Cyrene. This party was to leave London this week but the outbreak of war may change his plan.

Pres. Schurman Defends
Conduct of Students

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 29.—At the opening of Cornell university President Jacob Gould Schurman devoted his annual address to a defense of the character of college students from the recent attack made on college morals and practices by R. T. Crane of Chicago. President Schurman carried the war into Chicago and reviewed the earlier attacks by the western manufacturer on colleges as colleges. Mr. Schurman said he had invited Mr. Crane to express his critical views in an address to Cornell students, after a western institution had refused to hear him. But Mr. Crane declined.

"Mr. Crane has now chosen a new line of attack," continued Mr. Schurman. "Having failed to convince the American public that a college education is worthless he attacks the universities as hotbeds of immorality. This attack, which was published in papers all over the country, was a direct challenge to the character of the American youth. Crane declares that of every hundred Harvard students 50 per cent drink liquor and 35 per cent in the senior year, while 25 per cent drink heavily and 15 per cent become irretrievably drunkards.

"I say most emphatically that Mr. Crane's allegations are a libel and outrage on a group of the ablest, most high minded and devoted citizens of the republic. What evidence is there for Mr. Crane's arraignment? None appears except the astonishing statements I have quoted above, and anyone who is at all familiar not merely with university conditions but with young men would know how impossible it was to secure with any kind of accuracy statistics on the subjects about which Mr. Crane makes such confident assertions. What excellent feeling the students must have had with the paid investigator! He, forsooth, could hear out their secrets and lay bare the inmost recesses of their lives!

"Mr. Crane graciously says that Cornell boys do not carry their excesses so far as do the boys at Princeton, Yale and Cambridge! But he adds that the Cornell students indulge in beer, and that owing to the existence of numerous fraternities here their beer drinking may be practiced in private. But the fact is that fraternities having lots located on the campus are not permitted under the terms of their charters to have beer or alcohol of any kind into their houses. And fraternities off the campus have voluntarily adopted a similar regulation.

To the best of my knowledge and belief this prohibition is strictly enforced by the students. I do not deny that there have been occasional lapses, and I have had to deal with such deviations from the rule. But I do not hesitate to say that the exclusion of beer and liquor from the fraternity houses is the established rule and policy, and that the rare exceptions which have occurred have been condemned by the students themselves."

A RUNAWAY BOY

Was Turned Over to the Local Police

Joseph Neuer, aged 14 years and residing at 73 Joy street, Somerville, who yesterday ran away from his home with a boy named Shea, with the intention of eluding some of Shea's relatives in New Hampshire, was turned over to Patrolman William O'Brien by a conductor on one of the Nashua cars when it arrived in Lowell this afternoon and the boy is now at the police station awaiting the arrival of his parents.

Neuer and Shea left Somerville yesterday, but when they reached Nashua Neuer decided that he had seen enough of the country and that there was no place like "Home, Sweet Home" and although he tried to have Shea return with him Shea decided to travel farther on.

Neuer accordingly took an electric car out of Nashua this morning and the conductor after learning of the boy's case turned him over to the police. The boy's clothing was soaked by the rain and when a representative of the Sun arrived at the police station the lad was sound asleep in a chair.

He informed the police that he was tired of traveling and wanted to go back home and the local authorities notified the Somerville police and one of his relatives will come to Lowell this evening to take him back home.

BUCK O'BRIEN THE MAN

He Held the Chicago White Sox to Three Hits

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—"Buck O'Brien, Brockton's leading citizen, continued his brilliant work for the Red Sox yesterday, by handing a 6 to 3 defeat to the Chicago White Sox.

As the home team took a commanding lead in the first inning, when it scored two runs on singles by Gardner and Yerkes and a double by O'Brien, the Chicago catcher, O'Brien was never forced to his best work, yet he got nine men on strikes, including the clever McConnell three times in succession, and struck the side out in the fifth, this time taking McConnell's measure with the bases crowded.

The White Sox got in three safe singles—and that's all. With two down in the second, Collins sent in one run with a single, and in the sixth with men at second and third and two gone, Tannhill singled, scoring two. As the home team had a fine lead, O'Brien worked his fast ball and curve, but when out for a scalp, he pushed over his moist ball for a killing.

Great Catch Closes Game

Radio drew passes in the second and sixth and scored each time. The Red Sox hit Lange for 12 safeties, and kept the young man on the jump. All Boston's chances in the field were easy until Collins, the last man at bat, drove a low liner to short left, on which Duffy Lewis made a sensational catch, taking the ball at full reach, two feet from the ground while sprinting for all he was worth.

After the home team took the lead all eyes were centered on the work of O'Brien, and the fans were satisfied. No more so, however, than the Chicago players—it is all that the advertisements claimed for him.

Red Sox Takes Early Lead

Boston scored two runs in the first with one down, when Gardner and Yerkes singled. A passed ball gave Gardner a chance to score from second. Yerkes kept on for home and the ball was thrown wide to Lange at the plate. Lord recovered it and shot it to Mayer, who muffed, and Yerkes scored the second cheap run.

In the second, Bodie walked and went to become as D. Lewis, after taking "Barney" by the throat over Bradley's head trying to get his man napping. Tannhill sent a fly to center, then J. Collins singled and Bodie scored. Boston scored three runs in the third, which Hooper opened with a double. Gardner sacrificed. Yerkes singled, scoring Hooper. Speaker doubled and J. Lewis singled.

In the fifth, Barrows walked and stole second. The next two men were disposed of on strikes. Mayer was safe as J. Lewis threw low to first. Lange walked, filling the bases. Then O'Brien got McConnell on strikes.

A triple to the left field fence by speaker and a single by Duffy Lewis gave Boston its sixth and last run.

Chicago Makes One Threat. The White Sox got busy in the sixth, Lord left with a single to right. McIntyre was fanned, Bodie drew another pass, Barrows hit a vicious grounder that O'Brien blocked and tossed to first. Tannhill stung the first ball for a single to center, and two runs scored. This was the last of the visitors, the next nine men to face O'Brien going down in order.

In this inning, with one down for Boston, Bradley hit for two bases, but was caught off second, as he favored his lame knee. O'Brien opened the seventh with a single, but there was no damage as the next three men hit weakly.

With two down in the eighth, J. Lewis hit one too warm for Lange and made two bases on a wild throw to first all for no purpose, as Bradley struck out.

Bradley played another superb game at first base and got in a single and double.

The series now stands 11 to 9 in favor of the Red Sox, who must win one of the next two games to take the series and hold the honors. The score:

MANAGER MCGRAW

FEELS CERTAIN HIS TEAM WILL WIN PENNANT

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Following two successive victories of the Chicago baseball team of the National league, the only possible contenders for the championship over New York, which is still five and a half games in the lead for the pennant, the remaining two games of the series waited today on the schedule.

Smarting under the halt put to their attempt to wrest the league title from Chicago, the New York players rested today with the avowed intention of defeating the foe tomorrow and Sunday. Players of both teams appreciated the rest, however, as all were somewhat stiff because of the weather, they suffered in yesterday's game, which ended in a heavy rain. It drizzled most of the nine innings.

It is now planned to use Mathewson in the New York box again before the end of the season as his help will be needed. It is said, following his defeat yesterday by Cole.

New York can still lose 7 of its 14 remaining games and win the pennant, even if Chicago wins all its 9 games. Seven of New York's remaining games will be with Brooklyn and Manager McGraw today said he expected to win at least five of these contests.

KENNEDY WON

HE WAS GIVEN THE DECISION OVER FRED O'BRIEN

ADAMS, Sept. 29.—Steve Kennedy of Lawrence got the decision over Fred O'Brien of Chelsea in a fast round hand before the Northern Berkshire A. C. last night.

Kennedy had a little better of the fighting from the beginning and showed cleverness not only in his ability to land, but also in getting away from his opponent's fast swings. While O'Brien was fast on his feet, he seemed unable to reach the Lawrence boy with any effect.

Kid Casey of Adams got the decision over Kid Bell of Boston in the six-round semi-final, and Jack Earl and Young Russell, both of Adams, went four rounds to a draw in the preliminary.

The main bout next week will be 10 rounds between Gilbert Gallant of Boston and Young Sam Langford of New York.

GROUP OF STERLING GIANT PLAYERS WITH WHOM MANAGER MCGRAW EXPECTS TO CLINCH THE PENNANT

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Manager McGraw of the New York Giants is greatly pleased with the team's fine showing while away from home. He intends to give the regular players a much needed rest as soon as the crucial Chicago series is ended. If they win the majority of the games from the Cubs it will probably mean that they will play the Philadelphia Athletics for the world's championship. The out shows the little Napoleon of the diamond surrounded by his stars. Mathewson, Marquard and Wiltse are the mainstays of his pitching staff; Herzog, Fletcher, Doyle and Merkle make up his sensational infield, and Wilson is second string catcher. Murray is the only veteran outfielder on the team and possesses the best throwing arm in the league.

GIANTS LOSE AGAIN MILLIONAIRE BANKER

Cole of the Chicago Cubs Out-Denies That He Proposed to Miss Bergh

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—"Big Six" Mathewson fumbled before Joe Tinker, his ancient foe, again yesterday, drew the loser's end of a sizzling battle and let the Giants slip back a notch in their race to clinch the flag. Tinker's bat turned the trick that put the Cubs to the front, 2 to 1, and Cole did his best.

Cole outpitched Mathewson and his fielders were with him every inch of the fray. The Giants were not with Matty, and although their errors did not figure directly in the scoring they were far outplayed.

Cole held the brigade of McGraw to five hits. "Big Six" did not pass a single batter. Cole's generosity let three Giants get a life on the runways and two of these took off, along with two hits in the first inning, gave the Giants their run.

The Cubs accomplished their feat in one inning. It was the one round when Matty was caught in a pinch and fate decreed that Tinker should unseat a lucky hit.

It was brought about after Archer and Cole had died in the third. Shocked and dropped a hit over Larry Doyle into short right and Schulte got a safe smash off Matty's glove.

Then Tinker did the same as in the days of Cub successes. He caught the famed fadeaway in the right spot and the ball went for two bases. Scherard and Schulte scoring and Joe pulling up at second. He died there when Zimmerman whiffed, but the telling blow had been administered and the game won as events proved. The score:

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—New York city will pay plenty of tributes to Christopher Columbus, but not a cent of real money. The board of estimates refused to appropriate the $50,000 requested by the Columbus day committee for a city celebration on October 12.

"The board can keep its money," declared Chairman George W. Loft of the committee. "We will go ahead and educate the children to respect the memory of the great man and to appreciate him at his true worth. We will have a parade with 100,000 men in line."

It was said that Cornelius Vanderbilt, August Belmont, Isaac N. Seligman and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., had been "heard from" and that contributions sufficient to carry through the celebration would be forthcoming.

FOR COLUMBUS DAY

New York City Would Not Contribute

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—R. O. Flannery, conservative, was nominated for governor by the republican state convention late last night.

ton lives with his married daughter, Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, at No. 144 West Fifty-seventh street.

The identity of Miss Bergh was not disclosed by the attorneys interested in the action yesterday when inquiries were made concerning her. It was learned, however, that she is about 45 years old and has known Mr. Horton and his family for nearly twenty years. She is said to have an independent income and to have resided during the summer months at Monticello, N. Y. She recently returned to this city.

Miss Bergh charged in her original complaint that on July 26, 1908, Mr. Horton asked her to marry him as soon as "certain humiliating conditions which would soon be conquered by him were removed." She asserted that on December 22, 1909, he renewed the promise to marry her, and she agreed to become his wife one month from that date. She declares she waited in vain for him to keep his promise.

Mr. Horton requested the court to strike from this complaint the allegation that "certain humiliating conditions" governed his course of conduct. The court granted his motion, and the complaint was amended by striking out this statement. Mr. Horton in his filed answer denies every allegation of the complaint except that which he states he did not marry Miss Bergh.

Mr. Horton said last night when asked about the suit: "The less you say about the case the better I will be pleased. My attorney is W. F. S. Hart." Mr. Hart said: "There is nothing I can say about the suit."

Harold T. Marshall, of No. 34 Nassau street, attorney for Miss Bergh, declined to discuss the litigation.

"It is possible there will be no suit by night," he stated, "It may be settled."

TORE UNION BANNER

Non-Union Barber Fined in Lynn Court

LYNN, Sept. 29.—The equity court, and not the police court, is the place to settle union troubles, said Judge Lummas, at Lynn, yesterday, when Miss Gelich before him on a charge of malicious mischief. Erlich keeps a non-union barber shop on Blossom street. The Barbers' Union employed a boy to carry a banner in front of his place reading "Organized labor will patronize shops having this label." The defendant rushed out and tore up the banner.

In ordering Erlich to pay the union $3.50 for the banner and the court $1.50 as costs. Judge Lummas said: "This court is not a court of equity and has no power to decide how far a labor union may interfere with the business of a non-union shop. If the proprietor of a shop thinks his rights have been infringed by the action of the union he must go to a court of equity and must not resort to violence."

"This court is a criminal court, and its duty is to keep peace and order in the community. In all labor troubles it will endeavor to do that duty by punishing as severely as may seem necessary all acts of violence on the part of either side, without regard to the economic or industrial merits of the controversy. In this case reparation for the damages and payment of costs is sufficient."

ALBANY, Sept. 29.—Governor Dix sent to the legislature today a special message urging the prompt repeal of the Frayley law, under which the state athletic commission was created to legalize boxing and other athletic exhibitions in this state. Following a conference with Senator Frayley, sponsor for the law, the governor announced his intention to recommend its repeal.

The governor said last night that he approved the Frayley bill because he believed that a proper regulation of sports under state supervision would tend to elevate them. He now feels convinced that the law has not operated to accomplish that purpose. He said that Senator Frayley agreed with him that it had not come up to his expectations and if he could be convinced that its repeal is advisable he would not oppose legislation to that end.

Considerable doubt was expressed last night as to whether favorable action would be taken on the governor's recommendation at this session of the legislature in view of the determination of the legislative leaders to adjourn sine die by tonight, or Saturday at the latest. In fact many of the leaders expressed the opinion that action on the recommendation should be deferred until the next session. They contend that the law has not been given a fair and thorough test in the short time it has been in operation.

Senator Frayley was among those who believed such a course should be followed.

THIS MONTH'S WIND-UP

TODAY and TOMORROW

I bring this successful month to a close. I am out for the biggest business in the history of my Lowell store. In my efforts to establish still higher figures, extraordinary values will play the all important part.

My old customers realize the advantage of acting on any special call I send out to them upon occasions like this and those of them who are now in the market for a suit or overcoat or expect to be within a few weeks are hereby admonished to make it imperative to get in today or Saturday.

To the man who never entered my store, I issue this earnest plea. Kindly get in Saturday at any hazard. This is one of the biggest days in the tailor's year.

I have the golden opportunity to put one hundred new names on my books for this Fall's demand. You have the golden opportunity to see Mitchell's effort to make new customers by the plain, deliberate, premeditated slaughter of New England's famous woollens.

I HAVE THE ROCKVILLE OVERCOATINGS. I have them in all their styles and quality. I have more of them than any concern in Lowell. More than any wholesale or retail woolen dealer. I want you to see them before you buy elsewhere. I am looking for a sensation on them, and I deserve the credit for being able to turn them out at popular prices.

WHERE CAN YOU BUY THE SHERIFF MILLS WORSTEDS AT MY PRICES? High grade, heavy weight, dark, all wool, double and twisted worsted suitings, from Sheriff Mills, of Fitchburg. Why, the name guarantees quality.

AND PARAGON MILLS SATIN BACKED BLUE FANCIES that sell the second a man puts his hand on the goods. Quality, why there is no quality too good for my customers. There is no quality-made in America that I won't get for you, if you only show appreciation.

TODAY OR TOMORROW

Two minutes of your time, your own eyes to see, your own fingers to feel, your own memory of what like qualities always cost you in the past, and I STAND WITH YOUR ORDER OR WITHOUT IT, JUST AS YOU JUDGE, and I am sure it's no harm to look.

GOVERNOR FOSS

Opened His Campaign at the Barre Fair

BARRE, Sept. 29.—Governor Foss opened his campaign for re-election here yesterday at the Barre County fair. It was governor's day and the governor and his staff and council were guests of the management.

Long before the governor arrived a record breaking crowd had gathered upon the grounds and when he did make his appearance he was given a royal welcome.

Then he was escorted about the exhibits and then to the dining hall, where a specially prepared dinner awaited him and the other guests.

Following the luncheon Governor Foss was escorted to the grandstand facing the race track where he delivered a short address during which he stated that he was glad he was re-nominated, and that he would do even more for the people of his commonwealth than he has. He elected for the second term. Plans for the betterment of the farmers and agriculture in general throughout the state constituted the subject of Governor Foss' address.

After reviewing several close heats in the racing and trotting races, Governor Foss and his staff left for Boston.

SEAMEN LOST

THEY WERE PICKED UP BY SCHOONER OLIVE F. HUTCHINS

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The dining quarters on the fishing schooner Olive F. Hutchins had the appearance of an

Atlantic avenue restaurant last Sunday evening on the fishing grounds, and for 24 hours the cook on board worked without a rest.

The schooner was lying in the heavy fog and at intervals of about 10 minutes, dorymen from other schooners, who were lost from their vessels would row up and ask the lookout to be taken aboard.

Before Monday morning 12 men had been picked up by the Hutchins and some of them had been without food and water for nearly 16 hours. Two of the men were from the schooner Robert and Arthur and three were from the Buena.

The Hutchins later met the Buena and transferred the three men to her and a short time afterwards the Robert and Arthur were in sight looking for her men and they were likewise restored to their vessel.

Yesterday morning, while on the way in, the Hutchins and the schooner Josie and Phoebe collided. Aside from losing her swordfish pulpit the Hutchins escaped injury and the other schooner was uninjured.

COST OF SHOES

WALTER C. TAYLOR DISCUSSES ADVANCE IN PRICE

Walter C. Taylor speaks as follows on the "High Cost of Shoes":

It is style, not shoe, that costs. The too rapidly changing styles entail expense. A fashionable Chicago dealer displayed a card reading: "We change our styles every afternoon at three o'clock."

A Brooklyn dealer advertised his satin boots as "the most fashionable and most extravagant footwear of the season." Both advertisements took with the public. The joke was on the woman who persists in buying shoes that are really "extravagant." Quick changes in style greatly increase the cost of making.

Women demand bronze kid one season, then corduroy, then dull calfskin; meanwhile the patterns must change from regulation six-inch tops to seven and eight-inch tops; lasts must be renewed outright. The shoe situation in general might be helped if manufacturers endeavored to restrict the senseless multiplicity of style production.

It is wholly within the range of probabilities that an era of "common sense" in shoes will follow the spread of real information regarding modern shoes, their qualities and their best uses. Common sense in footwear does not at all consist exclusively of flat-soled, broad-toed ugliness; it rightly includes grace and beauty as well as utility, good taste as well as solid wearing quality.

SENATOR CRANE

Is to Direct the Republican Campaign

Senator W. Murray Crane will take an active part in the management of the campaign of Lieut. Gov. Louis A. Frothingham for governor.

He will take up headquarters in Boston while the campaign is in progress. Last night Senator Crane and Chairman Charles E. Hatfield of the republican committee met in Dalton at the former's home and went over the plans for the coming campaign.

Senator Crane will come up for re-election in 1913; that is he will come up before the legislature elected in November, 1912.

The junior senator is accredited with being one of the shrewdest politicians in the country and he was very active in the campaign of the allies at the last republican convention. The republican organization is elated with the fact that he is to participate actively in the campaign of Frothingham against Foss.

The executive committees of both the republican and the democratic state committees met yesterday. Congressman Robert O. Harris will preside over the republican convention, which will be held in Tremont Temple next Thursday.

The chairman of the committee on resolutions of the republican state committee is Samuel J. Elder. The other members are Dana Malone of Greenfield, Allen T. Treadway of Stockbridge, Joseph Morette of Lawrence and Henry C. Mulligan of Natick.

Ex-Governor Bates was chosen chairman of the permanent organization. Senator Charles H. Pearson was elected chairman of the committee on credentials and Councillor Walter I. Gilman of Somerville, chairman of the committee on finance.

WOMAN AVIATOR

Broke Endurance Record at Long Island

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A successful test of the practicability of sending wireless messages from aeroplanes, target shooting on the wing, the breaking of the American endurance record for women by Miss Heleno Duetrieu and an excited passenger-carrying contest were the principal features of the sixth day of the international aviation meet at Nassau boulevard, Long Island.

The conditions were ideal. The wireless test was made by a telegraph operator in the biplane of Lieut. Arnold, who succeeded in flashing six messages from a height of 250 feet.

The target shooting contest was somewhat of a disappointment as Capt. Patrick Hamilton, the crack English shot, allowed the match to go by default to Lieut. J. E. Pichel of the 29th infantry after flying back and forth in front of the target several times with Tom Sopwith without sighting his rifle. The contestants were to fire six shots each at a target 20 feet square. The American army officer, firing from a distance of 150 feet, made some fairly good hits.

Miss Duetrieu, driving a Farman biplane, made a new American record for women by remaining in the air 37 minutes 22 2/5 seconds.

The passenger-carrying contest of 10 miles was for biplanes and was won by Capt. Paul Beck, U. S. A., who while the only one to finish out of seven contestants, would have come in second had not Lee Hammond's motor gone dead when he was within 100 feet of the mark, a sure winner. In this event Lieut. Edson, U. S. A., smashed the left wing of his machine on a pylon as he was rising.

A cross-country race of 20 miles to Belmont park, to Mineola and back was won by Claude Grahame-White in his Niemport against George W. Dyott in a Duperdussen, the only other contestant.

Bishop Burgess yesterday replied to the letter of Timothy L. Woodruff, sent him by aeroplane on the subject of Sunday flights. The bishop declared he was surprised that a man so prominent in the affairs of state as Mr. Woodruff should willingly try to evade the law by a technicality.

JUDGE LAWTON

SENTENCED TICKET THIEF TO HOUSE OF CORRECTION

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Judge Lawton in superior court yesterday afternoon sentenced Gavin I. Young to the house of correction for two months. He was arrested last July charged with the larceny of 13,725 railroad tickets, the property of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn R. R., the total value of which was more than $500.

Young was a conductor in the employ of the railroad. It was shown that Melvin O. Adams, president of the railroad, acted the part of a detective, securing much of the evidence against both Young and Michael Levinson. The latter was arrested at the same time on a charge of receiving the stolen tickets.

The thefts had been going on two weeks before they were discovered. It was expected that Levinson would also be sentenced yesterday afternoon, but attorney John P. Feeney asked the judge to suspend sentence until after the Jewish holidays. The judge granted the request and Levinson will come up for sentence next Wednesday afternoon.

A very successful farewell party was tendered Miss Ruth G. Halpin Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Joseph Flynn in Middlebury street.

The young lady is known to the Lowell public as a very talented vocalist. Miss Halpin, who is about to live in Brookline, is to enter the New England Conservatory of Music to have her voice further cultivated.

After visiting some of her friends, she returned to her home to find it overcrowded with her many friends who had gathered there to present her with a beautiful gold chain and diamond studded locket.

The presentation speech was made by Miss Ruth Kirby. Miss Halpin, though taken completely by surprise, thanked her friends in a very appropriate manner. An interesting entertainment program was carried out.

THE OPEN PRIMARIES

Are Favored by Head of the Boston Election Commission

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Open primaries, at which the voter need not state his party, but receive one ballot containing the names of all candidates for nomination, is the recommendation made by John M. Minton, chairman of the Boston election commission, as the result of his study of the primary election of Tuesday.

While he considers the direct vote on candidates for all state officers "a distinct and logical advance" and holds that "the convention of delegates for the purpose of nominating candidates for state officers has gone, never to return," he yet can find material for criticism in Tuesday's primaries.

"A total vote of less than 190,000 from an electorate of 570,324," he remarks, "is significant and disquieting." He points out the effects of the little-discussed feature of the law which provides that on and after July 1, 1912, none but entitled voters shall be permitted to sign party nomination papers.

"The democratic progressive party in Massachusetts," he says, "in my opinion has cast less than 200 votes in the entire state. If this party retains its political status this year, although given by the new primary, it will practically be unable to do so because it will not have enrolled voters enough to nominate a candidate for governor. So that, as far as that party is concerned, this provision of law is conflicting and absurd."

"In my opinion it will prove a hardship also to the democratic and republican parties. This provision to my mind is narrow and illiberal."

"This year any voter of Massachusetts could sign a nomination paper. Next year less than one-third of the voters of Massachusetts can sign nomination papers. I believe this is unjust."

I believe this provision should be repealed."

Mr. Minton then goes on to advocate what many will think is a radical change in the primary laws of the state, but which to my mind is a logical advance, namely, the open primary.

"I believe the time is now ripe for the abolition of party enrollments as a prerequisite to voting in a primary, and for the printing on a general ballot of the names of candidates of all political parties duly nominated."

"The argument is advanced that unless a voter shall stand up in his boots and publicly announce his party affiliations he shall not be allowed to vote. That argument cannot affect me, because I am a well-known adherent of the democratic party, and in my official capacity as election commissioner I am legally known as a representative of the democratic party."

"The secret ballot at an election prevents violence and intimidation, the fear of ridicule and dislike or of official or commercial injury. I believe similar reasons exist today for having the secret ballot at the primary."

Let Candidates Make Platform.

To meet the objection that the ballot would be too large, Mr. Minton recommends the abolition of the election of delegates to the state committee, which now has power only to adopt a platform, and the vesting of that power in the candidates of each party themselves.

He also recommends that "instead of electing a large number of persons as ward committeemen, one man from each party, a leader, can be elected in each ward and town of the state, who, if thought necessary, could after election designate a specified number of assistants."

In conclusion, Mr. Minton says: "The great bulk of the voters of this commonwealth vote at elections as their consciences dictate, and I believe they should be given the right to vote at primaries as their consciences dictate."

"I believe, instead of having a closed primary in Massachusetts, we should have an open primary. I believe that the primary laws should be liberalized and that the voter should be trusted."

"On election day the great mass of democratic voters vote for their party candidates, and the great mass of republican voters vote for their party candidates, and the independents make their selections, and open and notorious affiliations is not made a prerequisite for voting."

"I believe that the political party which inserts in its platform a plank demanding the abolition of party enrollment as a prerequisite to voting in primaries, and that a general ballot be prepared containing the names of all the candidates duly nominated, will inaugurate a principle that is a distinct and logical advance and which places in the hands of the people that power to which they are of right entitled."

Mayor Opposes Minton's Views

Mayor Fitzgerald yesterday expressed himself as against Mr. Minton's recommendations. The abolition of party enrollment and the adoption of a general ballot, he thought, would increase opportunities for crookedness and give other party a chance to put up a weak man in opposition to their party candidate.

Party responsibility, he argued, can be fixed only by the retention of the present party designation on the primary ballots and would tend to be removed by a general ballot.

TO FIGHT SALOONS

New Plan Proposed by Maine County Attorney

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 29.—"We shall never enforce the prohibitory law until we get at the men back of the saloons," said County Attorney Samuel L. Bates yesterday in the case of the state against Louis Matson, who was indicted with Julius A. Rindin for alleged maintaining of a liquor nuisance.

Rindin was the main witness on the part of the state. He testified that he was called by him said Rindin had been many times convicted of violation of the prohibitory law and that he is now under an indictment. Rindin testified that while he managed the business it was financed by Matson, who was, he testified, the owner of the place. He said that he accounted to Matson for all the money taken in by him if possible at least once every 24 hours.

M. T. O'Brien, Matson's attorney, called ex-Mayor Charles H. Randall, Mayor Frank B. Welch and Frank M. Brown. They all testified that they never knew Matson to be concerned in the liquor business.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty against Matson. The county attorney clearly indicated during the proceedings the intention of the state to bring into court those who are alleged to be financing the places where liquor is sold here. Matson was fined $100.

Other fines were paid in liquor cases as follows: Alfred Bonchard $100, Thomas Kelly $100, Joseph White $100, Michael J. Byrne $100, John Gibson $500.

SEEKS DIVORCE

MAN SAYS THAT HIS WIFE ABUSED HIM

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Locked out of his house without sufficient clothing in a blizzard, Frederick A. Chubb of this city charges his wife with cruel and abusive treatment in a libel for divorce filed in the Suffolk superior court.

The libelee, Annie L. Chubb, is now living in Minneapolis. The couple was married Jan. 15, 1915, at Annapolis, Minn. In November and December of that year they lived in Boston and again resided here from November, 1916, up to the spring of this year.

They have one child, Timothy Hoar Chubb, aged two and a half years. The libellant asks for the custody of that child. The libel was filed by Roger Sherman Hoar. Mrs. Chubb has engaged Milton and Jackson of this city, who filed their appearance yesterday.

The libellant alleges he was locked out of the house in the night of Feb. 14 last, in Brooklyn, while there with his wife on a temporary business trip. He says she was guilty of cruel and abusive treatment at divers other times. He further charges her with a statutory offence.

Three applications for membership were received and considerable routine business was transacted.

Chairman William Dickson made a final report of the gala day held recently at the grounds.

The committee on the banquet, which is to be held at the club house, Saturday, October 14th, reported that tickets were selling fast. Resolutions on the death of Col. A. M. Chadwick, who for many years was a popular member and supporter of the club were adopted, and the flag was ordered to fly at half mast in his memory until after the funeral.

The committee on grounds reported that seven acres of land had been cleared and ploughed up and would be ready for athletic purposes next summer. Considerable work has been done preparing the grounds, and they now await surveying by a civil engineer so that the quarter-mile track can be laid out scientifically and built to make the race course popular with the leading runners in New England.

JACK JOHNSON

SAYS THAT HE WILL QUIT THE RING SOON

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Johnson-Wells championship fight scheduled for Oct. 2 has been abandoned by the principals and promoter, owing to the opposition of the authorities and a large element of the public.

Johnson said after the hearing in court yesterday:

"After finishing my contracts in England I will never return to the gloves in public again. I shall retire as heavyweight-champion of the world, which no man before has ever done."

The fighters and promoter White, with their lawyers, appeared in the new Bow street police court yesterday afternoon and gave a formal undertaking to cancel the contest, whereupon the magistrate adjourned without date the proceedings which had been brought against them on the grounds that they contemplated committing a breach of the peace.

The decision was directly due to the injunction issued Wednesday against the lessees of Earl's Court at the instance of the District Railway company, the freeholders, who alleged that their license would be endangered if the fight was permitted in their building.

EDWARD MATT GIVES BRIDE A WRITTEN GUARANTY

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Edward Matt, who yesterday married Miss Gertrude Ellis, sought to avoid future domestic infidelity by filing with the county recorder a guaranty to be as nearly the model husband as possible. The guaranty, signed and witnessed by a notary, promised:

"She may do as she pleases. She is free to go and come when she likes, to go with whom she chooses and I will not be jealous. I will not go gambling for a fellow because he undermines her beauty, and because she smiles when he speaks to her. I will not interfere with any of her plans. I will be kind and good to her. I will give her all my earnings, and it will be her privilege to do with my income as she likes, so long as she feeds me well."

"When we have a surplus and it goes to the bank, I agree not to hold the key. The checks may be signed by either of us. I agree to come home at a proper hour each night or give her a valid excuse."

"And I further agree that I will let her get a divorce if I fail to behave as a kind, loving, gentle, considerate husband should."

"When the guaranty had been duly placed on record, the couple sought a minister and were married."

MR. I. L. SHOWEM GOES OUT FOR A WALK WITH MOTHER-IN-LAW

THE STATE PLATFORMS

To be Built by Samuel Elder and George Fred Williams

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The action of Democrats will gather in historic Faneuil hall, the scene of last year's tumultuous convention, on Thursday. As both parties selected their state platforms next week, in the hands of Samuel Elder, a close college friend of President Taft, and George Fred Williams, one of the original Bryan leaders in Massachusetts. The republicans will meet in the prominent temple on Wednesday while the nouncing their political ideas if necessary.

The selection of Mr. Elder was made several weeks ago but that of Mr. Williams took place last night. Information had been received from Governor Foss that he would not be a good man to hammer the political platform together but the committee seemed to think that Mr. Brandeis was closer to the republican insurgent than he was to the democratic party, so Mr. Williams was chosen.

After the convention there will be five weeks of strenuous campaign work. Governor Foss and Lieut. Governor Frothingham probably will find it convenient to leave much of the state business in the hands of assistants in order to fight out their political battle on the stump.

Governor Foss has congratulated Lieut. Governor Frothingham on the latter's victory on Tuesday but Mr. Frothingham in reply says that he cannot return the compliment as it was announced today that United States Senator Crane would have an active part in the coming campaign. The junior senator's term expires in 1913 and the makeup of the coming legislature is of some interest to him as about half the number are expected to be re-elected next year.

WM. BUTLER YEATS

Irish Poet and Dramatist Spoke of Irish Stage

William Butler Yeats, the Irish poetical dramatist, was the speaker yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Boston Drama League, held at the Plymouth theatre. There was a very large attendance. It had been expected that Lady Gregory would speak, but Prof. Baker, president of the league, who made the opening address and introduced the speaker, announced regretfully that she was unable to be present, owing to a considerable delay in the arrival of the steamer on which she is a passenger. Mr. Yeats' subject was the "History of the Irish Stage," more especially referring to the "realistic movement" with which his own work is connected.

At the commencement of his talk Mr. Yeats mentioned two kinds of drama possible to present upon the stage, the poetical, imaginative drama, concerned with an ideal world, and the realistic drama, or that in which are represented the realities of life, heightened and relished if necessary for dramatic purposes, but being the reproduction, on the boards, of life as led by real people. The latter form of drama is at present being given by Sig. Grassi and the Strellians, and of course by the Irish Players from the Abbey theatre now playing at the Plymouth theatre in Boston.

The source of this realistic drama in Ireland," Mr. Yeats said, "is in the life of the common people, and as in any ideal drama there must be the element of a beautiful, picturesque speech, it is only fitting that such a language should be found in the country, among the peasants, who are interested in life itself rather than in its mechanism, and whose speech is not merely commercially utilitarian.

Among Irish Peasantry

He referred to many incidents in his own wanderings among the Irish peasantry illustrative of this fact, and spoke of picturesque tales told him, and especially of the description of a certain Mary Hinds, by villagers who remembered her beauty as being akin to the speech of Homer's old men as they talked of Helen of Troy.

"In Ireland," he said, "there is a continual struggle going on to prevent the conquest of the Irish mind by the English mind, and to preserve this unwritten folk literature, which has perished everywhere but in Gaelic Ireland. To this end the Gaelic league was founded."

Mr. Yeats is a poet and author of many plays mostly in verse. He spoke of the plays of Lady Gregory as being among the best of the recent productions. Unlike those of John M. Synge they do not deal out sarcasm in their laughter.

The Irish players from the Abbey theatre in Dublin have had a successful run at the Plymouth this week and will remain next week. They are receiving great compliments from all quarters.

LYMAN CAPTURED

He is Wanted on Swindling Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Dr. John G. Lyman, promoter of extensive enterprises, who escaped from an Oakland hospital, Sept. 22, while under arrest on a charge of swindling investors out of $50,000 in a Panama land scheme, was captured last night at Lakeview, Ore., by Sheriff Snyder of Lake county. J. M. Thorne, a nurse in the hospital, was arrested with Lyman.

ALIMONY UNPAID

Bankrupt Woman Has Claim on Husband

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Ethel S. Elliott, who 11 years ago left the stage to marry John Love Elliott, a reputed millionaire, and obtained a divorce seven years later with $20,000 a year alimony, filed a remarkable petition in bankruptcy yesterday. She schedules liabilities of $24,616, and gives as her only asset $28,115 unpaid alimony, leaving it to the courts to decide whether unpaid alimony constitutes an asset under the bankruptcy law.

As Ethel Irene Stewart, Mrs. Elliott was well born and gently nurtured until death and misfortune threw her upon her own resources with a mother to support. She became a choir singer, but the pay was so small that she returned to the stage, and in 1900 appeared in "Chris and the Wonderful Lamp," at the Victoria theatre.

Mrs. Stewart attracted the attention

pany, and an officer and director in many other business firms, with a rating of many times a millionaire. Miss Stewart and Mr. Elliott met at the home of a friend, her brief stage career came to an end, and they were quietly married.

Seven years later, as quietly as she had been married, Mrs. Elliott obtained a divorce. It was reported that she had demanded and had been granted $1,000,000 alimony. Within two weeks her husband married Miss Laura Moore, who had been Mrs. Elliott's music teacher. The bankruptcy petition discloses for the first time the amount of alimony granted to Mrs. Elliott and equally surprising is the allegation of Mrs. Elliott that he is more than a year in arrears in payment of alimony.

HARVEST SUPPER

WAS HELD AT THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The annual harvest supper of the First Baptist church was held last night. The supper was all to the good, and there was an entertainment that was all to the merry. The affair was given by the Benevolent society of the church, assisted by all the women whose names began with letters from N to Z.

The hall was prettily decorated, the work being done by Miss Bertha Taylor. The decorations included fruit, flowers and vegetables, and the arrangement was very artistic.

The entertainment was furnished by the Sigma Sigma society of the church. The title of the sketch was "A Pan of Fudge," showing a group of college girls having a "dine" in one of the rooms of the supposed dormitory, and the funny incidents and accidents were cleverly handled. The cast included: Etta Smith, Faith Doty, Lillian Whitaker, Ivy Hands, Alice Flandings and Mrs. Wilfred Kershaw.

WATER DEPARTMENT

Says There Will be an Improvement in the City Water

Complaints relative to the rather bad condition of the city water continue throughout the city, but the water board and water department officials expect that a marked improvement will soon be noted in the water.

Supt. Thomas said today that the rain and the cold weather would serve to clarify the water and he thinks that within a few weeks there will be no cause for complaint. The cold weather will kill the crenothrix in the pipes and that will help some.

"How much of the city water comes from the Merrimack river?" asked the reporter.

"I presume that most of it comes from the river," said Mr. Thomas.

"If the water shed slants toward the river and the water runs that way, how do you account for the river water getting to the wells?" asked the reporter.

"That is a question," said Mr. Thomas, "that is quite frequently asked, and the answer is very simple. We sink a well anywhere from 15 to 50 feet and when you dig a hole deeper than the bed of the river, the river water is going to find its way to that hole. That is the simple philosophy of the whole thing. I have no doubt that not only river water but water from across the river gets to our wells. It scares some people to hear that we are pumping river water, but there is no cause for alarm. The water filters itself on the way to the wells. It has to percolate through the sand and the sand acts as a natural filterer."

In some scientific magazine Mr. Thomas came across an article on the effect of iron in water, and he says it tells the whole story. He said that everybody should read the article, and he furnished the reporter with a copy of it. The article reads as follows:

Effect of Iron in Water

A half part per million of iron in water is detectable by taste and more than four or five parts make a water unpalatable. In some mineral springs iron is the constituent which imparts a medicinal value to the water, but ordinarily it is undesirable. More than 25 parts per million in water used for laundering makes it stain on clothes. Iron must be removed from water from which ice is made or a cloudy discolored product will result. An iron content of over two or three parts per million in water used in the manufacture of paper will stain the paper. Iron is harmful in water used for steaming, for it is in equilibrium with acids which inside the boiler becomes dissociated, with the result that the free acids corrode the boiler plates; but the amount of iron carried in solution by most waters is so small that the damage it does to steam boilers generally amounts to little.

Waters having high iron content have in some places caused an immense amount of trouble and expense when used as city supplies, for they favor the growth of crenothrix to such a degree that the water pipes become clogged with the iron sheaths of the organism. The removal of iron from water is sometimes easy and sometimes difficult.

Dist. Attorney Pelletier The Wakiva to Visit Mediterranean May Fill Vacancy

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Joseph C. Pelletier, district attorney of Suffolk county, has been offered by Gov. Foss a place on the bench of the superior court. Friends have advised him to accept the appointment, although they believe that further political honors await him if he continues in his recent office.

There are two vacancies on the superior bench due to the death of Judge Richardson and the promotion of Judge DeCourcy to the supreme court.

Gov. Foss, it is stated by friends of Mr. Pelletier, has looked with favor upon the record of the district attorney in his present office, and in his private practice before that. The district attorney has not indicated even to close friends whether he intends to accept the appointment.

WOMAN ENTERS SUIT

She Wants to Recover Notes That Were Given in 1885

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Edward F. Coffin of Boston and Richard Stone of Boston, in an action filed in the superior court to a bill in equity entered by Margaret A. Hastings of Springfield, deny that Coffin is the owner of a certificate of stock in the Fibreboard company, valued at over $50,000, regarding the fact that it still stands in his name on the company's transfer books.

Mrs. Hastings brought the action to recover the notes which she claims Coffin made payable to her and John Hastings in 1884 and 1885 in the amount of $7,000, with interest to date. The case has been in the Massachusetts courts since 1895, the first step having been a suit filed in Salem in which Mrs. Hastings sought to secure a verdict on a civil action.

In the present action she claims that Coffin, in order to defraud his creditors, transferred the certificates of stock to Austin, who turned it over to Stone, but that the ownership of the stock in the Fibreboard company, appearing on the books of the company as owner. She also says that dividends much in excess of any amount due Stone from Austin are still in his hands held for Coffin's account. She says that Coffin has also turned over real estate and other valuable articles and possessions to Austin in order to defraud creditors.

Deny Allegation
The defendants in their answer admit that the certificate of stock for 400 shares valued at $50,000 or more, issued to Coffin, still stands in his name. They deny that the stock was turned over to him for any consideration. They admit that the certificate is now held by Stone, who received it for a consideration. They deny that any oral agreement was entered into by means of which Stone was to hold the stock for Coffin in order to defraud the latter's creditors, to prevent attachment or to prevent the application of the amount of the stock to the payment of Coffin's debts.

They also deny that Coffin has turned any real estate or other property over to Austin with this end in mind.

The defendants then go into a lengthy explanation as to the origin of the Fibreboard company, of the manner in which the certificate of stock first came into the possession of Coffin, was transferred to Austin and then to Stone for a consideration.

They say that they have already made application to the treasurer of the company to have the stock transferred to the name of Stone, but that he has refused and they have instituted equity proceedings to compel him to make the transfer.

They also say that the failure of Mrs. Hastings to proceed against Coffin within six years from the time of the expiration of the notes in question, bars her from recovering by civil process through the statute of limitation.

DIRECTORS SUED

They Admit Company Paid Verdict

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—President Otis Simonds and several company directors of the Eastern Cold Storage company admit that the $107,500 which they were called upon to pay as a result of a verdict against them in the Middlesex superior court on account of a suit against them by Walter L. Hill, formerly treasurer of the company, was paid out of the company's treasury.

This admission was made in an answer filed in the supreme court to a bill in equity filed by Walter L. Hill and R. L. Smith of New York, as executors under the will of Harford B. Kirk of New York, in which they seek to induce the supreme court to rule that James S. Murphy of Brookline, George H. Mosgrave, Arlington, vice-president of the company; Otis Simonds, president, and Hale Mason of Boston, all directors, reimburse the company for the amount of money paid for the company's treasury as a result of Hill's civil action. Arthur A. Smith, treasurer of the company, is also made a defendant in the action.

The bill in their bill claim that the defendants, except Smith, were guilty of a malicious libel circulated against W. L. Hill in connection with his conduct of the office of treasurer of the Eastern Cold Storage company, as a result of which Hill sued them, recovering a verdict of $2574 with $102 costs. They say that this amount, together with $1400 counsel fees resulting from the defense of the civil action, was paid from the treasury of the company.

They said that in the meeting of January last the defendants were asked to return the money to the company's treasury, that W. L. Hill attempted to introduce a resolution to this effect, but that Mosgrave, who was presiding, adjourned the meeting without entertaining a motion on the resolution.

The defendants, aside from their answer, have filed denials in which they say that there is no cause in the plaintiff's bill for interference of equity.

In their answer they admit that a verdict was gained against them by Hill and that they paid this amount with $1400 counsel fees from the treasury of the company. They deny that and demand has been made upon them to pay the money back to the company.

They deny that any attempt was made to exclude Hill or any other stockholder from participation in the proceedings.

They also deny that Treasurer Smith has been asked to attempt to collect the money to return it to the company's treasury, or that he has any right to do so.

RHEUMATISM SELDOM KILLS

The Chief Danger Is from the After-Effects Caused by the Condition in Which It Leaves the Blood.

Statistics show that very few victims of rheumatism die from the disease directly. The worst feature of the disease from the standpoint of mortality, is the legacy of thin blood and shattered nerve that it leaves.

The best treatment for rheumatism is rest, in bed if possible, and a supporting or tonic medicine which will keep up the strength of the patient and repair the thinning of the blood which is always present in this disease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, a remedy and have been used with marked success in thousands of cases.

Mr. Myron Adams, a resident of Bad Axe, Mich., has been permanently cured by this treatment and his gratitude prompts him to make the following statement for the benefit of those who still suffer:

"After working for a long time in the lumber camps, going through exposure to dampness and suffering from colds," he says, "I had an attack of rheumatism, that lasted two years. It affected my arms and shoulders and quick, sharp pains ran all through my left side. My arms, principally the elbows, were sore to the touch. My back was lame and the kidneys affected. I could not lie down to sleep, because the pain would then be too severe, but had to be bolstered up in a chair. I had no appetite, could do hardly any work and began to think life wasn't worth living."

"I had different doctors who helped me for a time, but the trouble always came back. I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in a paper and, chancing to talk to a neighbor about them, found he had been cured of rheumatism by these pills. I immediately bought some and could see after taking a few boxes that they were helping me. I took them a while longer and haven't had a touch of the trouble since. I cannot tell how much I value Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

These pills can be obtained at any drug store or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50. A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free upon postal card request.

VACCINATION

BROUGHT DEATH TO A PITTSFIELD YOUTH

PITTSFIELD, Sept. 28.—John J. Manning, 16 years old, is dead at his home in West Stockbridge as a result of vaccination. He was a student in the first year business course class of the Pittsfield High school and attended school Monday and Tuesday of this week.

He was vaccinated a week ago and caught a cold which developed into spinal meningitis, resulting in death. On returning to West Stockbridge from his studies at the local high school Tuesday afternoon, Manning complained of aching pains in his throat and when these pains continued a physician was called, but was unable to save the boy's life.

The Manning boy was a native of West Stockbridge, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Manning. He was an athlete of considerable ability and was prominent in baseball and basketball in the district.

As a student at the Pittsfield High school, he was regarded as a model scholar.

Aside his parents, the boy leaves three brothers, James, Arthur and Bernard Manning, all residents of West Stockbridge, and a sister, Mrs. Edward Lynch, who resides in this city.

HE FOUGHT BURGLAR

Quincy Man Injured in the Struggle

QUINCY, Sept. 28.—Edwin Menchink, who lives in the old Thomas Boylston Adams house at 79 Elm street had a lively tussle with a burglar at his home last evening, but was obliged to let go his hold after the burglar had jammed a finger into his right eye and punched him several times.

Mr. Menchink returned from his daughter's house, a short distance away on the same street, at 8:30, and entered his home by the rear door. Hearing a man's footsteps he lit the gas in a middle room and saw a young man standing in another room.

Mr. Menchink started after the fellow, who ran the other way, and out into the hallway, at which Mr. Menchink had just come into the house. Before the fellow could unfasten the door Mr. Menchink grappled with him and both landed up against a window, smashing a pane of glass.

In a tussle which followed both went down, with Mr. Menchink underneath. At this juncture the burglar struck Mr. Menchink in the face and mouth. He then made a spring for the back door, unlocked it and ran away. Before Mr. Menchink could get to his feet again the man had vanished.

Police headquarters were notified and the auto patrol with a squad of patrolmen went to the place and searched surrounding fields and streets, but did not see anything of the burglar.

In making a search of the back entry, where the fight took place, the burglar's cap was found. The police think the man knew that the family was away. He entered the house through a window in the pantry. Mr. Menchink said the fellow was a young man with a smooth face and a dark complexion.

BURNED TO DEATH

Man Perished in Fire in Boston Hotel

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—William Kiss, a florist of Manchester, N. H., was found suffocated in a room at the Lincoln House, 75 Causeway street, about 10 o'clock last night. The ornamental looking into the room, saw the bed where on which the victim was sleeping.

Kiss was taken from his perilous position, but it was too late as life was extinct. Dr. Murphy of the Revere hospital staff was summoned. He found Kiss dead.

The flames in the room were extinguished without notifying fire headquarters. Mr. Kiss registered at the hotel on Wednesday, but little was seen of him by the proprietor. The latter was attracted to the guest's room by the odor of smoke.

It is believed that the dead man had fallen asleep while smoking in bed and that in this way the bed clothing had caught afire.

The body was removed to the North Grove street morgue awaiting a claimant.

ORDER OF MOOSE

HELD AN ENJOYABLE ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE

Lowell lodge, No. 618, Loyal Order of Moose, held a ladies' night Wednesday night at their headquarters in Odd Fellows temple. There was a large attendance and the evening was spent in an enjoyable manner. Between 8 and 9 o'clock Halley's orchestra gave a musical program, while a number of candidates were being initiated in the latter hall.

At 9 o'clock a grand march was held, after which a dance order of 25 numbers was carried out. There was a 15-minute intermission at 11 o'clock, during which time refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the general arrangements was composed of the following: Captain Walter R. Jones, chairman; Charles H. Richards, R. J. Flynn, Frank Mussey, Felix Hill and A. H. Verity.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT

CAUSES CONSUMPTION, ACCORDING TO T. L. ELLIOTT

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—"Artificial light causes tuberculosis," declared T. L. Elliott in an address at the closing session of the Illuminating Engineering society yesterday. Mr. Elliott, who is editor of a technical magazine, said that he knew of 111 factories in which the germs of tuberculosis and other diseases develop because the workmen use only artificial light. He pleaded for the enactment of government laws that will prohibit the illumination of factories by artificial light only.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

The committee on appropriations will meet tonight and will consult with the superintendent of schools and the park department relative to extra appropriations to carry them through the year. The committee met with the heads of other departments at a recent meeting and the only two departments remaining to be heard from are the school and park departments. It is expected that the school department will ask for about $35,000. Last year the school department was given an appropriation of $33,721 and this year they asked for $35,000 and received $33,000, a cut of $1,700.

In the natural course of events it would not be expected that the department would ask for more than the $17,000 that was clipped off the first of the year, but the industrial school proposition has to be reckoned with and that means more money. There's a principal and seven teachers to pay and it costs a good penny to put the school houses in shape. A good deal of the equipment was donated and a good deal had to be purchased. The putting in of burlers in the different school houses, Mr. Whitcomb says, was quite an item of expense, not due as much to the cost of the burlers as to the work of installing them. Mr. Whitcomb said today that he had not figured out how much more money the department would require to pull through the year but he said it would be considerably more than $17,000.

OPERA HOUSE

"The Newlynods and Their Baby," a musical comedy built around a group of cartoons and characters familiar to many newspaper readers, will come to the Opera House tonight and Saturday.

This production serves once more to call attention to the achievements of an artist. George McManus' invention of the "Newlynods," and his pictures are as famous as those of Buster Brown, and an army of other mischievous youngsters. The chief figures in the deal had to be purchased. The putting pictures are Mr. and Mrs. Newlynod; Napoleon Newlynod, the baby; Major Knott Much, and the Big Black Bear.

The story is so fantastic as to be almost farcical, but the complications are said to be so numerous and comical that an entertainment of the jolliest kind results. It appears that one Professor Nichol has a kind of museum in which he exhibits a midget, Major Knott Much. This attraction, wearying of routine duties, runs away from the museum, taking with him the Big Black Bear which is his constant companion. Professor Nichol, facing certain ruin if he cannot find another attraction to take the place of Major Knott Much, learns that the son of Mr. and Mrs. Newlynod, a child named Napoleon, is a runaway midget. He succeeds in kidnapping the baby, aided thereby by the unconscious Mrs. Newlynod, and for a time there is a flurry of excitement over the baby and the efforts to recover him. Everyone suspects everyone else of having had a hand in the kidnapping, and matters right only after the most hopeless misunderstandings are brought about.

The company which has been engaged to illustrate this lively story on the stage includes many familiar and popular performers. Major Knott Much, a comedian of the Lilliputian class, will appear as the Baby and Major Knott Much, and his chief assistants will be Daniel F. Murphy, Charles A. Morgan, Phil W. Smith, Olga Von Hatzfeldt, Louise Anker, Milton Dawson, George Austin, The Townsley, Benard, Gus, Shiloh, and a beauty chorus of more than fifty that can sing and dance.

DANTE'S INFERNO

One of the most interesting features of the engagement of "Dante's Inferno" at the Lowell Opera House commencing Monday, Oct. 2, with daily matinees for one week, is the exhausting of all the copies of the famous poem from the public libraries in cities where the attraction is now playing.

Another feature which excites much interest and admiration is the dramatic recital running in exact conformity with the pictures. This recital which covers all the scenes of special dramatic power is rendered by Charles H. Cline, who for several seasons has been a member of William Fawcett's company. Mr. Cline has also gained considerable fame in connection with his work on the Russian Play of Oberammergau. So impressive is this dramatic reading that a pen may be heard to drop while the lecturer is speaking.

Special music has been composed to accompany the dramatic reading by Pietro Mascagni, which is rendered on a large pipe organ. Special effects have been devised by Mr. Thomas Gaffey, who has been termed the "Dante" of motion picture effects. Mr. Gaffey has made a life study of illusions produced by sound, and it is said that he can conjure any noise from the chirp of a sparrow to the roar of a tornado.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

There are few comedians on the vaudeville stage who can be compared with John Neff, who is appearing at the R. F. Keith's new theatre in Bridge street, this week, as an added feature on an exceptionally strong bill. He is presenting his delightful one-act comedy, "The Brainstorm Musical," assisted by Carrie Starr, a vivacious actress, who plays the role of a "hello girl" in a most acceptable manner. John Neff was the star comedian of the legitimate several years ago, and his comedies have been enjoyed the popularity which has been his. In "The Brainstorm Musical" his true value as a comedian is shown, and it is the biggest laugh producing piece seen for many years. Another act which is billed as the leading feature of this week's bill and which has received the heartiest approval of the audiences of the early part of the week is Dr. Carl Herman, the most mysterious man science ever dealt with. Dr. Herman charges himself during his act with as much electricity as would be required to electrocute six men. The act is a marvel and has been a hard thing for scientists who make a study of such superhuman demonstrations to diagnose. The other acts are Harlan Knight and company in "The Chick Line"; Mr. and Mrs. Allison in "Mile from Minnesota"; Harry Panella and Viola Vallor, entertainers; Recorder and Lester, gymnasts; and the Emmet Brothers, dancers. Picture films close the bill.

On next week's bill is Little Lord Robert, the Lilliputian comedian, the smallest comedian in vaudeville. Sordam Venus, vaudeville's only living model, and the most artistic for art and settings ever produced; Van Haven, the mad magician; Leroy, Harvey and company, producing "Rined in"; Arthur Van and his brace of comedy girls; Belle O'Keefe, the girl with the beautiful voice, and the Pondleton Sisters, dancers and entertainers.

Tickets may be reserved in advance by telephone 25.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Last night was "Eek Night" in this theatre and the members of the local lodge turned out to a man to greet their brother member, Donald Meek, and his associate players, who are giving "Naughty Rebecca," the hilarious comedy in three acts by Maurice Hagenau. With the members of the R. P. O. E., who have become known as the "Best People on Earth" came their friends and both composed one of the largest audiences ever assembled in this theatre. They were well rewarded in laughter for the reception which they tendered the players in a good full measure of laughs, occupying over two hours. In the comedy of "Naughty Rebecca" there are many funny complications which are unknown in past and some of the most modern comedies, and these are what make it the most popular comedy of the famous humorist, Hagenau.

Next week this company will produce the famous drama of American politics, "A Gentleman from Mississippi," the sterling play of political ethics in and about the national senate, by Hamilton Rhodes, one of the best known of American authors and Thomas A. Wise, who created the role of Senator Langdon in the initial production of the play and who also collaborated on Mr. Rhodes' manuscript.

The play will be taken from the original manuscript used by Thomas A. Wise in the first performance and there will not be the slightest omission.

Mr. Angeline, through several visits to Washington, has reached a touch of perfection in painting the scenery, and some of the places such as the Marble Hall and the senate chamber can be readily recognized.

Jack Chagnon, the dramatic actor who for several years appeared with several stock companies in the Academy of Music and latterly with his own company at the old Hathaway theatre, will become a member of the Donald Meek stock company next week and will make his first appearance Monday, Oct. 9, in the frontier drama, "In Texas." The announcement of the procuring of Mr. Chagnon was made last night and it

The Shillings, expert sharpshooters, who are appearing at the Merrimack Square theatre this week, perform some of the most difficult and daring feats with a rifle and a marksmanship appearing before the public today. Their work borders on the marvelous and should be seen to be fully appreciated. The young woman lights a snaphatch by shooting at it from the gallery and then splits it on the second shot. She also clips off the end of a cigarette held in the mouth of her brother and accomplishes many other equally wonderful feats.

Miss Beatrice Saville, the new member of Our Stock company, who is appearing in the presentation of "The Open Gate," is winning friends by the score. Her work is that of a finished artist and compares with the high standard of entertainment provided by the other members. The other attractions are scoring heavily at all performances. Anty Drudge Tells How.

Mrs. Kowler—"Well, I must be going. Now mind, you come and see me next week. Any day 'cept Monday. That's my wash-day, and the house will be full of steamy soap-suds, and me too tired to make you a cup of tea."

Anty Drudge—"That's just the day I'll come. And I'll be there bright and early with a cake of Fels-Naptha soap. The wash will be on the line before noon—and the ironing done before night."

If you found it easier to do your washing on Tuesday than on Monday, you would change at once. Sensible women would! Yet there are some women who still wash clothes in the old-fashioned, hard-rubbing way, just because their mothers taught them so.

Are you wearing out yourself and your clothes boiling and rubbing? Why not try Fels-Naptha soap? It's the new, modern way of washing. Use it in cold or lukewarm water—no boiling or hard-rubbing—and your clothes will be cleaner, whiter, and wear longer.

Follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

NEVINS CONVICTED

Chauffeur Found Guilty of Manslaughter

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Joseph Nevins, a taxicab driver, was convicted yesterday of manslaughter in the second degree following the killing of James E. Mallon, who was an employee in the health department. Mallon was struck at Fifth street and Broadway on June 7 by an automobile that Nevins was operating. Judge Crain, before whom the case was tried in general sessions, deferred sentence for one week. The maximum penalty for manslaughter in the second degree is fifteen years.

William A. Brady, the theatrical manager, happened to pass in his car when Mallon was knocked over. He testified yesterday that the machine of Nevins was going about thirty-five miles an hour and that after he saw it strike a middle-aged man he ordered his chauffeur, James Hagerstrom, to catch the taxicab. Brady first alighted and did what he could for the dying man. He took him in his own machine to Roosevelt hospital, where he died in a few hours. Nevins had been overhauled and when brought back was arrested.

Nevins' defence was that it was an accident and unavoidable. The case was prosecuted by Assistant District Attorneys McCormick and Bestwick. Mallon had for fifteen years been connected with the health department. He lived at 25 Virginia place, Brooklyn, and is survived by his wife.

RUNAWAY GIRL

WAS PICKED UP BY NEW YORK DETECTIVE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Edith Greenwald, a 14-year-old girl whose disappearance from her home at 538 East 134th street on Sept. 21 was reported to the police of the Alexander avenue station, was found last night at Seventh avenue and 17th street by Detective Turner, who had been assigned to the case. The girl ran when the detective called her by name and after she was caught refused to tell where she had been beyond saying that she had just returned from Poughkeepsie. Her mother, the wife of Michael Greenwald, a shoe dealer, had no more success in getting the girl to tell her story and the young woman was arrested as an incorrigible.

The girl had been a silk operator in an 18th street factory.

PARDON FOR HAINS

Is to be Granted by Gov. Dix

ALBANY, Sept. 29.—Gov. Dix has decided to pardon Peter C. Hains, Jr., who killed William E. Annis. Of the twelve jurors who tried Hains eleven have recommended to the governor that he exercise clemency. In addition Col. Asa Bird Gardner yesterday filed with Gov. Dix additional affidavits containing what Col. Gardner refers to as new evidence now brought out on the trial in favor of Hains. Gov. Dix did not care to discuss these affidavits last night, but it was said that while he had not yet pardoned Hains he intended to do so.

Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., and his brother, T. Jenkins Hains, a writer of sea tales, went to the Bay side Yacht club at Bay Side, L. I., on Saturday afternoon, August 15, 1908, and as William E. Annis, advertising manager for a printing, came up to the club dock in his racing sloop Capt. Hains stepped forward and emptied the contents of a Colt automatic pistol into Annis' body. The reason given for the shooting was the relations between Annis and Claudia Libbey Hains, the captain's wife.

Both brothers were tried for murder in the first degree. T. Jenkins Hains, who was tried first, was acquitted. Capt. Hains was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree on May 11, 1909, and was sentenced by Justice Garretson in the supreme court at Flushing to serve not more than six years and not less than eight years in Sing Sing at hard labor, and began serving his sentence almost immediately.

The army status of Capt. Hains remained undisturbed except for cessation of his pay, until January, 1911. Then the house of representatives passed a bill authorizing the secretary of war to drop from the rolls officers convicted in a civil court. On January 30 Capt. Hains' resignation was accepted by the president. A divorce from his wife, Claudia L. Hains, was accepted by the president. A divorce from his wife, Claudia L. Hains, was granted to Capt. Hains by Justice Scudder in the supreme court in Brooklyn on August 25 last. Capt. Hains received the custody of his three children. The suit was not defended.

PRESENT WARD REPRESENTATION USELESS

In the discussion of the new charter, the opponents of the measure make much of the matter of ward representation. Under the present charter the republican councilmen having a fixed majority in the lower branch get what they want and give the democrats as little as possible unless on a trade to carry some scheme that may be wholly unnecessary. Thus the democrats are at a disadvantage unless they enter into trades with the republican members. Under the commission system of government the members of the municipal board would be elected at large and would represent all the wards alike. They would be paid for their services and would act with the knowledge that the people could recall them at any time for due cause. The people of all wards could then carry their petitions to a non-political, non-sectional body and one that possessed the power to do whatever might be demanded by public progress, public convenience and necessity.

Norman White went so far in assailing Governor Foss that it is very generally believed were he nominated he would hardly get fifty per cent. of the republican vote. Mr. Frothingham may get a little more.

The price of wheat has jumped three cents a bushel since the defeat of reciprocity in Canada. As usual any pretext on which an increase can be based will be taken advantage of. Had reciprocity been adopted that would also have been used as a pretext for an advance in price. If no other pretext were available and a sparrow should alight on the grain elevator at Chicago that would probably be made an excuse for putting up the price.

President Taft has very sensible views on the marriage of girls. He does not insist that all should marry, but wishes that every girl could be left free to marry or remain single as she preferred. Too many, he believes, are forced to marry by circumstances beyond their control and often against their own wishes. In this the president is right. It would indeed be well if girls were so independent financially that they would not be forced into marriage as a means of securing a home and a livelihood in their declining years.

Thanks to the police of Lowell and the valuable assistance from the police of Portland, Me., one of the worst bands of "yeggs" ever found in New England has been broken up and six of them sent to prison. Most of the breaks and burglaries in New England during the past two years are believed to have been made by this well organized gang of eight professional crooks who had established headquarters in Lowell under the guise of a lodging house. The capture of the entire gang by the Lowell police will stand as one of the best pieces of police work ever done in this state.

THE FINANCIAL PROBLEM IN IRELAND

In framing a measure of home rule for Ireland one of the principal difficulties will be to properly adjust the finances of Ireland as related to England. It has been demonstrated again and again that Ireland has been paying more than her fair share of imperial taxes into the treasury of England. The government of Ireland as at present conducted is needlessly expensive. The cost of the police and military service is very high. There are five times as many police in the country as are necessary, and as for the military they are not needed at all but are simply quartered there because the entire British army is necessarily distributed through the United Kingdom, and Ireland has to have her share of the trouble. Under home rule the British police would soon be withdrawn and the soldiers, too, would be less conspicuous.

PUBLIC SWIMMING POOLS

The Brockton Times has been agitating for a municipal swimming pool for that city. A swimming pool has been frequently advocated as a public necessity in this city, and it has even been proposed to have such a pool at which all the school children over a certain age would be taught to swim. The time has come when this public necessity will be properly met, not only in Brockton, but in Lowell, and in every important city of the state.

During the past season the total number of accidental drownings in New England waters was 328. It is safe to say that more than half of these drownings would not have occurred if the victims had been reasonably expert swimmers. A swimming pool could be easily provided in connection with a system of public baths which is another necessity for every manufacturing city. Free public baths, swimming pools and beautiful public parks, together with public playgrounds, are all greatly needed by manufacturing communities for the comfort and physical well-being of the people who work in the factories during the week. Few people appreciate how many of the fathers are without the facilities for taking a bath in their homes, and it is well known that a great many of them are employed in unhealthful occupations. For these the parks and the public baths would be life savers. Indeed there is reason to believe that the death rate would be lower and the public health better if we had a system of public baths to supplement our now excellent park system.

In the number of drownings referred to it appears that there were sixteen double drowning accidents and four triple drownings, most of which were caused by the overturning of boats occupied by persons who could not swim. It is the duty of the state to insist that school children over twelve years of age shall be taught to swim, and this cannot be done without some suitable swimming pool. Cities situated on the seashore do not need swimming pools as the beach affords every facility for learning to swim, but in inland cities the swimming pool must eventually be provided, and it must be available not only for full grown people but for children. The time will come when the inability to swim will be regarded as an educational defect almost as bad as illiteracy, and in certain cases vastly more dangerous.

SEEN AND HEARD

Vincent Astor, son of Colonel John Jacob Astor, has decided to become a lawyer. He has entered Harvard and, after completing a three years' academic course, he will enter Harvard law school.

Colonel Astor and his son have been considering during the last year the possibilities held out by the profession of forestry, which Colonel Astor wished his son to take up. At first Vincent thought that he would become a physician, but recently the appeal of the law has been such that it was finally decided to make a lawyer out of the young man.

Lewis Cass Lodge, the eminent corporation attorney of New York, it is understood, had a hand in persuading young Astor to take up the study of law.

A note book of a 1911 graduate from a fashionable New York school for girls indicates that in these seminaries of learning very few opportunities for complete an all round education are neglected. In addition to the plays, operas and concerts which every boarding school is required to attend, here are a few of the extra diversions:

"Mass meeting at Carnegie hall to hear Smith and Joseph Choate speak." "Hearing election returns." "Electrical exhibition." "Sculptors' exhibition." "Two visits to college settlement." "Meeting of Parents and Teachers league." "Inspect model bakery."

The 1911 graduate declares that those were only a part of the extras, but the next page of her note book is gone and she cannot remember what they were.

The husband and wife had chosen the mahogany table right away and a couple of straight backed chairs, but only after a good deal of reluctant thought did they decide to take the old rocker which had belonged to his parents. All four pieces needed polishing and fixing and the antique man was sent for.

He had a surprise for them. The only piece in which he showed any interest was the old rocker of mahogany. "You see, that is all solid mahogany except one piece. It is worth far more than any of the others, for it is more of a rarity, and the table you have is all veneer, and old tables are common, anyway, almost as common as straight backed old chairs. Let me have the rocker done in haircloth. It costs as much as leather and the chair was made for it. If you have it rump bolstered in leather it will look as modern as the cheapest imitation."

THE LAND OF COUNTERPANE. When I was sick and lay abed, I had two pillows at my head, And all my toys beside me lay, To keep me happy all the day.

And sometimes for an hour or so I watched my leaden soldiers go, With different uniforms and drills, Among the bedclothes, through the hills.

And sometimes sent my ships in fleets all up and down among the sheets; Or brought my trees and houses out, And painted cities all about.

I was the giant, great and still That sits upon the pillow-hill, And sees before him, dale and plain, That pleasant land of counterpane.

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Worcester Post: With 40 per cent. of last November's vote out at the primaries yesterday, the claim that the system is "not wanted" by the people cannot now fool anybody that doesn't want to be fooled. Among the republicans the proportion reaches some 80 per cent. in spite of the fact that neither of the candidates for the head of the ticket was very satisfactory. Does anybody believe that under the old caucus system there would have been any such representation under such conditions, or that the democrats would have been out to the extent of 33 per cent with practically no contest for the head of the ticket and so few for the minor places or for the local candidates?

Labor day procession.—New Bedford Standard.

We do not know what grounds there may have been for this reference to the Labor day parade in New Bedford, but we do know that the Lowell parade was highly respectable. There was no sign of intoxication anywhere, and the banders' uniforms took the prize for making the best appearance in line.—Lowell Sun.

Our reference needed no explanation in New Bedford, though it may have been mystifying in Lowell. Everybody here noted that the most conspicuous feature of the Labor day parade was the appearance of the famous old boats advertising the liquor business, to the great regret of many persons. For some reason which we do not know, and never cared to inquire, the textile unions, representing our chief productive industry, failed to appear at all—and though no criticism is to be made of the organizations which did parade, the fact that the liquor business was prominent and prominent by way of advertisement, may have been, as the Lowell Sun says, "respectable," but it did not seem appropriate.

BATHINGS FOR LIVESTOCK

Cement Age: Concrete bathtubs are the latest addition to the mule stables of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, and, according to Chief Veterinarian Newhard, who originated them, they help to keep the work animals in good health and spirit. These concrete bathtubs are set into the stable yard to a depth of four feet and filled with water, which is heated in winter by a jet of steam. The dimensions of 6 feet by 37½ feet are ample for the mule to enjoy a good dip, and corrugations on the bottom of the tank keep them from slipping. The inclines at both ends are likewise ribbed for the safety of the animals. A six foot shower is suspended over the centre of the tank and all coal dust and dirt is quickly removed. This luxury and comfort is not, however, monopolized by the mine mule. Progressive farmers in many sections of the country have established concrete tanks for livestock, recognizing their great value as a means of preserving health. The pools are made in various dimensions so as to accommodate animals that differ materially in size; for example, horses and sheep. In case of certain diseases or venereal curative properties may be added to the water.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Exercises attending the formal ground-breaking for the new John A. Andrew hospital were recently held at the Tuskegee Institute. This hospital is a memorial to Hon. John A. Andrew, a former governor of Massachusetts, and is the gift of his descendants. It will cost about $50,000.

Agulnaldo, former leader of the Philippines, is leading a quiet life as a well-to-do farmer, according to Judge G. W. Trent, a member of the supreme court of the Philippines. "Agulnaldo," said Judge Trent, "has a farm of several hundred acres in Cebu, just across the bay from Manila. He rarely visits Manila, and on the occasions he does go there it is generally as a witness in a court case. Apparently, the once noted insurrectionist has lost all political ambition, and desires only to be left alone to pursue his occupation. I am told he is a good farmer, and that he is making money out of agriculture. He never talks about the insurrection days and declines to discuss politics. If he were to seek an elective office I have no doubt that he would be chosen, for he is still popular with the native Filipinos."

A man with baggy trousers was a fringe on his cuffs, asked a year ago to be shown through the wards of the Babineau hospital in New York. The superintendent courteously took him through and treated him as if he had been clad in purple and fine linen. The unknown visitor proved to be Mitchell Valentine, who died lately and bequeathed $1,000,000 for the departments of medicine and surgery in the institution.

Miss Mary Prastor of Wakefield has been appointed secretary of the young people's work on the staff of the Women's Board of Missions of the Congregational church, to succeed Miss Louise Witherbee. Miss Preston is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke college, '10, and is New England secretary of Vacation Bible schools. She has just closed a successful season in charge of the Boston Vacation Bible schools.

James I. Tucker, assistant professor of civil engineering at Tufts college, has severed his connection with that institution and gone to Oklahoma, where he is to become the head of the civil engineering department of the state university. Prof. Tucker, who has been a member of the Tufts faculty for seven years, is a competent instructor and has been very popular with the student body. He is a graduate of the Tufts engineering school and the J. M. C. A. law school, is the author of a book on "The Law of the State," which has a wide sale as a text-book for college classes, and is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. It was largely through his efforts that the society acquired the Pollock estate which is being rounded into one of the finest "frat" houses on College hill.

Lionel Harvard, the first member of the family to attend Harvard university since it was established in 1636, will have a room in Veld hall in the college building, where he will confer with his fellow students, and enter the class of 1915, and his roommate will be Louis J. Cathron of Needham, a member of the class of 1912. This has been arranged by the Boston friends of the young man who were instrumental in his coming to the university, and has the cordial approval of Dean Hurlburt, who thought it well for the English boy to room in the yard and also for him to have the advantages which will come from constant association with the right kind of an upper classman.

It is an interesting coincidence that Mr. Cathron, as well as young Harvard, is of a family which has numbered the founder of a university among its members. It was a member of his mother's family who founded Mount Allison university at Sackville, N. S. in 1857. This is the largest institution of higher education in New Brunswick, and it was the first in Canada to confer degrees upon women. The parents of Mr. Cathron were born in Nova Scotia, but he was born and prepared for Harvard in Needham, and was roomed at home during the first three years of his course.

Prof. Rodolfo Lanciani, the author of "Wanderings in the Roman Campagna" and other popular books on Roman history and archaeology, has been raised to the rank of knight of Italy in recognition of his services in the field of archaeological investigations. King Humbert personally notified Prof. Lanciani of this new honor and offered his congratulations.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Washington Commandery, United Order of the Golden Cross, was held in Veritas hall last night. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted. Several matters pertaining to the welfare of the commandery were discussed. The D. G. C. Lady Carrier of Haverhill commandery, is expected to visit us Nov. 12, with several other members of her commandery. After the meeting a bowling contest was enjoyed.

Women's Relief Corps

Laid and Whitney circle, No. 3, held its regular supper and meeting Wednesday evening. A good attendance made the meeting unusually interesting. One new member was initiated; also one honorary member from G. A. R. post 155.

Visitors were present from Newburyport. The next regular meeting will be held Oct. 11.

ABOUT MUSHROOMS

THE DANGER OF CONFOUNDING THEM WITH TOADSTOOLS

For the number of cases of fatal mushroom poisoning this season has been notable, though while mushrooms have been unusually plentiful in this vicinity, there have been few deaths from mistakes in eating them. All the deaths everywhere are traceable to ignorance of the exact line of difference between the poisonous and the non-poisonous varieties, a difference which in some cases is too subtle for any but the accomplished expert to detect. The Medical Record, discussing the usual number of deaths of Italians from mushroom poisoning, explains that in Italy there is a common mushroom, which has been used for centuries as a food by the peasants. But in this country, that same mushroom is closely imitated by a poisonous variety, which not being familiar to the Italian immigrant, is taken by him for an edible with disastrous results. Most Americans, unless they are well versed in mushrooms, are apt to be easily misled by the similarity of the two, and thus they are liable to suffer from the same fate. The Medical Record remarks that "the edible mushroom is a delicate, but its food value is greatly exaggerated, for it contains hardly as much nourishment, weight for weight, as a turnip." Devout worshippers of the mushroom cult may resent such an uncompromising opinion, but it may please those who would like to eat mushrooms, though having not the courage,

CHARGE OF ARSON

Made Against Napoleon Charrest in Police Court

With the mercury in the thermometer at the police court room hovering around the freezing point this morning, the court officials, witnesses, prisoners and newspapermen shivered for about an hour. It was so cold that Judge Hadley had to wear a heavy overcoat and he, like others who had business in court, was glad when the session was concluded.

Broke Into a Camp

The principal case to be brought to the attention of the court was that of James J. Lannon, a youth residing in Roxbury, who was charged with breaking and entering a camp at Pinehurst, Billerica, and stealing three saws, two planes, three hatchets, three chisels, a couple of hammers and an umbrella. Lannon entered a plea of not guilty and expected that his counsel would be present. Several days ago Lannon's counsel sent a communication to the clerk of the court stating that he had been a candidate for the house of representatives and was so tired that he would be unable to attend court, but added that he would be present this morning.

Inasmuch as the two principal witnesses in the case reside in Somerville the court did not feel like adding to the expenses by making a postponement and the case was tried. After the testimony had been offered the court reserved decision and held Lannon under bonds for his appearance tomorrow morning. In the meantime inquiries will be made as to his reputation.

The first witness called for the government was Miss Josephine Dixon, who testified that she resides at 16 Ash avenue, Somerville, and that she and three other young women own a cottage at Pinehurst, Billerica. They visit the camp on Saturday nights and remain there over Sunday. Recently when they went to the place they found that one of the windows in the rear of the building had been pushed in and a number of tools, an umbrella and canned goods had been stolen.

Thinking that the larceny had been committed by some of the campers in the vicinity they made a tour of investigation and while passing two tents at Pinehurst discovered some tools which they received one of the tents, which it was afterwards learned was occupied by Lannon and a young man named O'Hara, and found a chisel in a suit case belonging to Lannon.

Miss Dixon testified that the following night she had a conversation with Lannon and he admitted that he and O'Hara had entered the cottage. He denied having taken anything but said that O'Hara went upstairs and took some tools which the latter claimed belonged to him. Lannon said that he knew that O'Hara later pawned the tools in Boston.

Officer Martin Conway who arrested Lannon in Roxbury, testified that Lannon admitted entering the cottage but that he did not steal anything. Witness said that O'Hara had made his escape and his whereabouts is not known at the present time.

When the defendant, Lannon, was placed on the stand, he admitted entering the place but said he did so because he was afraid of O'Hara. He said that although he was in the building he did not take any articles and does not know where O'Hara is at the present time. The defendant stated that his father is a policeman in Philadelphia, his mother is a cook in a house at Newton, and he lives with his grandmother in Roxbury.

Serious Charge Preferred

Napoleon Charrest was charged with drunkenness and maliciously and wilfully burning a building, the property of Margaret Wheelock. He admitted that he was drunk but denied that he set fire to a building. Inasmuch as the government was not ready for trial Supt. Welch asked for a continuance and the cases were continued until next Thursday morning, the defendant being held under $1100 bonds.

Charrest was in the employ of a tailor who has a place of business at the corner of Market street and Suffolk court and occupied a room in the rear of the store. Wednesday night about 11 o'clock a fire broke out in the tailor shop and after the fire had been extinguished Chief Hosmer made an investigation which led him to believe that the fire was of incendiary origin and he reported the matter to the police.

When Charrest was brought to the police station he admitted that he had poured gasoline on a stove in order to exterminate vermin. He said he had been drinking heavily and when he went to light the stove the flame from the match communicated with the gasoline on the stove and started the fire in the tailor shop.

The police, however, are of the opinion that the defendant had had some trouble with the man who ran the tailor shop and the fire was result as a result.

Sent to the State Farm

Charles Menier, an elderly man who claimed to be a valet, was charged with being a vagrant. He entered a plea of guilty and after stating that he had no home and wanted to be sent away the court sentenced the man to the state farm.

Two Months in Jail

James M. Harding entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with drunkenness but after Pauline Castles testified that he was called to Harding's home in Broadway about 8:40 o'clock yesterday morning by neighbors who had entered a complaint, that he found the man in an intoxicated condition and placed him under arrest, the court found the defendant guilty and sentenced him to two months in jail.

Other Offenders

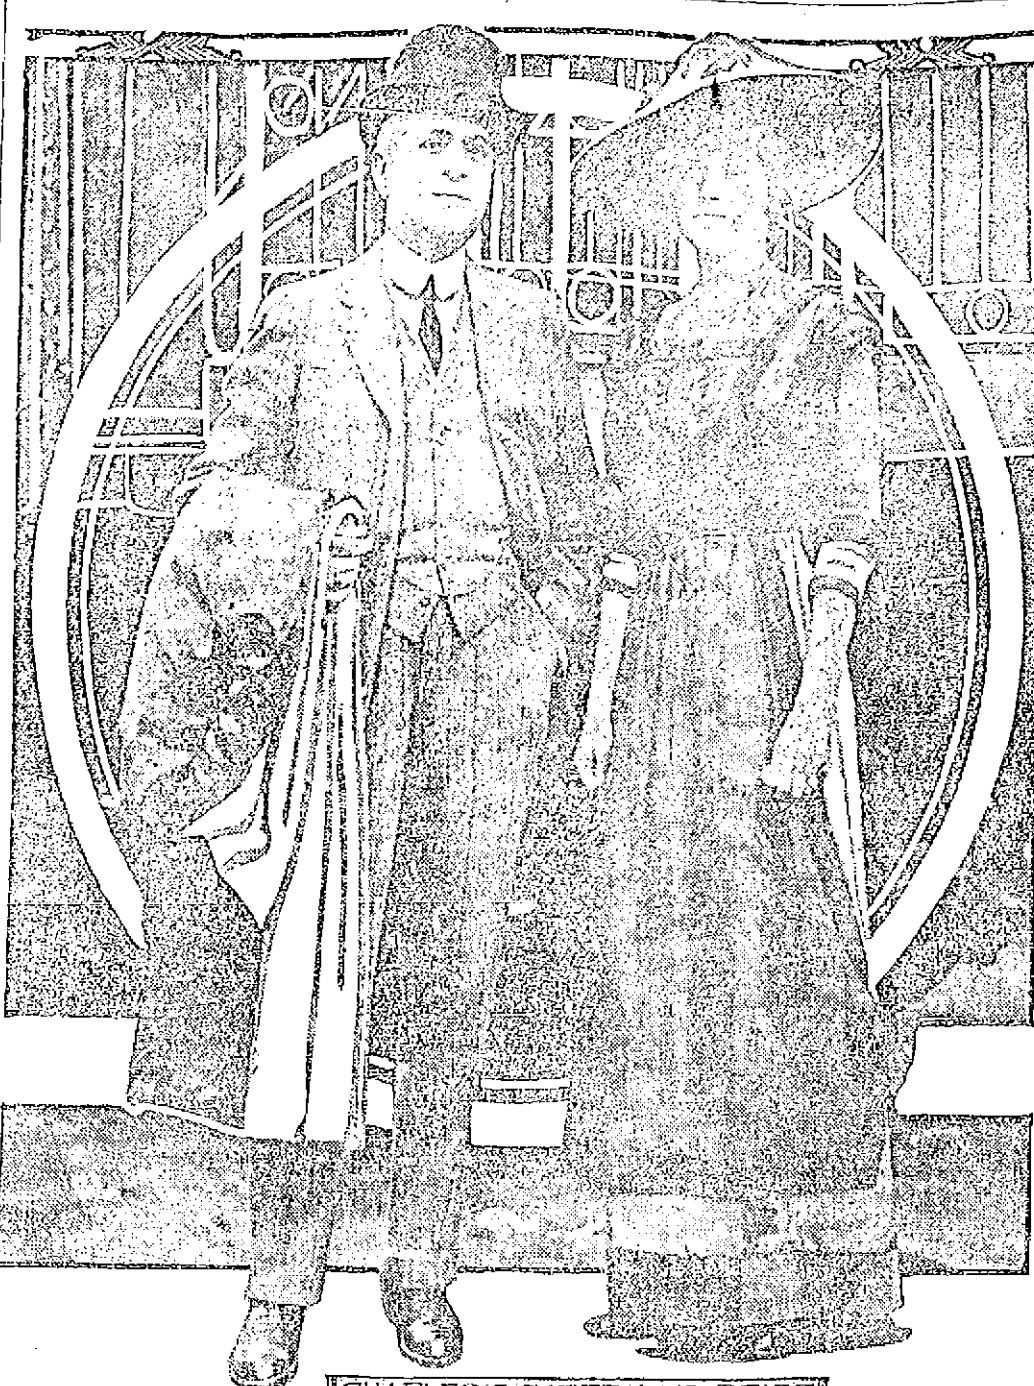

Thomas Mahoney, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to ten days in jail. Michael Galvin was sent to the state farm and John E. Corcoran was fined $6.

CHARLES G. GATES AND BRIDE ON TOUR OF COUNTRY AS WEDDING JOURNEY

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 29.—Just as Charles G. Gates, son of the late John W. Gates, and his bride, who was Miss Florence Hopwood of Minneapolis, were about to take the train for their wedding tour the camera caught this unusually excellent picture. They were married by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Lagrone of Port Arthur, Tex., an old friend of the Gates family, at the home of the bride's uncle, Robert F. Hopwood, in this town. Mr. and Mrs. Gates are making a tour of the United States as their wedding journey. They will finish the tour at Port Arthur, Texas, within about six weeks and after Nov. 1 will be "at home" in the Hotel Plaza, New York.

CHILDREN IN PERIL

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The Guardian Angel's school at Twenty-ninth street and Tenth avenue had just dismissed 500 children for the day yesterday at 3 o'clock and the crossings were crowded when a horse attached to a United States Express company wagon standing at Ninth avenue and Twenty-third street ran away. The driver was not on the wagon at the time. The horse ran west, sometimes on the sidewalk and sometimes on the street.

Policeman Bensinger, who was stationed at the crossing saw the horse coming and herded the children over to the southwest corner of Twenty-third street and Tenth avenue. He had them out of the horse's path when the horse took a new tack at the corner and ran from the northeast to the southwest corner of the street straight for the children. The policeman met the horse before it reached the sidewalk and jumped for its neck, locking both arms around it in a strangle hold. The horse then turned south and ran along the sidewalk toward Twenty-second street, dragging the cow and wagon, from which express packages were uttering the street. Women from tenement windows screamed to their children scurrying for cover like rabbits.

Halfway down the block was an open cellarway. The horse raised the opening but the policeman's body slipped through. He hung on like grim death, however, and the horse dragged him out again. Bensinger now got a tighter grip on the horse's whinny and with one hand pinched its nostrils, bringing it to its knees. Presently the panting driver came running up to claim the rig. No damage had been done to any one or anything, but the cop was pretty tired and bruised.

SANITARY OFFICERS

NAMED BY THE LAWRENCE BOARD OF HEALTH

LAWRENCE, Sept. 29.—The board of health performed another of its peculiar stunts last night, when in electing three sanitary inspectors at $18 a week each, it took the two lowest men on the civil service list, James P. Tierney of 23 Falmouth street, ward four, and Eugene L. Garneau, 45 Haverhill street, ward five, and gave them two inspectorships. John P. Fleming of 209 Farnham street, ward six, was third inspector elected. He was second on the list, but lost in the shuffle, as was ex-Rep. Wm. A. Hooper of 470 Hampshire street, who was third on the list, having a higher average than either Tierney or Garneau. Wards one, two and three were ignored in the dealing out of plums. A communication was received from Dr. John J. McAvoy to the effect that he was legally appointed a school physician and that he intended to resist any effort to oust him. The communication was laid on the table.

WILL BE ORGANIZED NEXT TUESDAY EVENING

Frank Ricard received a letter this morning from H. E. Taylor, chief clerk of the bank commissioners' office in Boston in regard to the plan of a credit union to be established in St. Joseph's parish. Mr. Taylor was anxious to know if anything had been done towards the organization of the said union.

The plan of a credit union will be organized in the parish and for this purpose a meeting of the 248 people who signed the first papers will be held at St. Joseph's college hall in Tremont street on Tuesday evening next at which time the officers of the new bank will be chosen.

This credit union would have been organized long ago but for the fact that Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., pastor of the parish, thought it advisable to wait until after the opening of the parochial schools, as his wishes are to get this bank in operation among the school children first.

COLD STORAGE LAW

Is to Be Tested in New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The case against the Greenwich Cold Storage company, 402 and 404 Greenwich streets, the first company to be prosecuted under the Brennan pure food bill which went into effect last June, came up in the court of special sessions yesterday for trial and after the testimony was taken was adjourned until November 6 to give the defending counsel and the assistant district attorney an opportunity to submit briefs. These briefs will not be on the facts of the case but will be on the constitutionality of the law, as the justices of special sessions have, Presiding Justice Deuel said yesterday, power to pass on this.

The Greenwich Cold Storage company is the first against which any move has been made by the state board of health, which has the duty of enforcing the law. Contrary to the general opinion among cold storage men, the company and its president, Laurens D. Prior, decided to fight a conviction instead of pleading the weakness of the law and ignorance of its requirements. The corporation is charged with a misdemeanor in having received into cold storage fifty-six barrels of sardines without marking the container the date of the reception into cold storage. Mr. Prior is charged with having guilty knowledge of this violation. The law provides that foods be kept in cold storage no longer than ten months and provides for the date being stamped as a means of knowing when they are sent into storage.

Inspectors of the State Board of Health Roche and Scharif yesterday recited to Justice Deuel, Mayo and O'Keefe that in August they visited the cold storage company's plant and found the fifty-six barrels of sardines in storage without any date mark. They told the superintendent the law and returned two days later to find that their requirements had not been complied with. They went back again three days later and found the food had been shipped out.

These barrels were part of a lot shipped into cold storage on July 12 by the Max Am Company, picklers, of 373 Greenwich street. On August 24 they had part of the lot shipped back to them, and employees said that no date was on them when they were received back.

BALBOA DISCOVERS PACIFIC
SEPT. 20.—Vasco Nunez de Balboa had used up all his pocket money in Spain and decided that he would see how the new world would pan out. He landed at Panama and began to ask the Indians questions on his fingers. In some sign language they covered to him the information that a large pond lay to the west. Taking a party of soldiers and some guides they started over mountains and streams and on September 20, Balboa got his first peep at the Pacific. He claimed it and all its shores in the name of the king of Spain. He called his discovery the South Sea but when Ferdinand Magellan came along six years after and sailed across as far as the Philippines he changed the name to Pacific and that name stuck. Balboa married the daughter of Davila who stood high at court and when Balboa got it into his head that Balboa was getting too gay in the new world, he had him beheaded on a charge of intent to rebel.

BARN ON FIRE

NEIGHBORS AID IN SAVING HORSE AND CARRIAGE HARNESS
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A fire in the second story of the barn of the Rev. Frank M. Clendinning, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church at Globe and Webster avenues, The Bronx, did about $3000 damage at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The barn stands about a quarter of a mile east of the church, at Castle Hill and Webster avenues. Some one who saw the smoke notified the sexton, David Butler, who lives opposite the barn, and he and some of the servants, helped by neighbors, got a horse out of the barn by covering its head with a blanket, and also saved several carriages. The barn was full of hay and the fire destroyed most of it. The second story was burned out before the firemen put out the fire. Dr. Clendinning is at Chappaqua, N. Y. He married a daughter of Horace Greeley.

MILLINERY DISPLAYS

Attracted Thousands of Women to Stores

There were many very pleasing millinery exhibits in the city today and thousands of ladies were attracted to the different stores. Below will be found descriptions of the leading displays:

MARGARET PIKE
Miss Pike's exhibit of millinery of fall and winter styles is very beautiful and it is surprising what elegantinery when the moderate prices are considered. Miss Pike is an expert milliner and is surely a headliner when it comes to designing millinery, and she always has in her employ as milliners some of the most expert in the city. Millinery is not her only forte, as dress and coat making are an important feature in her establishment, and one that has grown into great popularity. If you want to get anything in the line of millinery or in the coat making art, Miss Pike's parlors should not be overlooked. Her millinery display without going into detail compares favorably with anything seen on the tour of inspection. Miss Pike is located in the Chalfont building. Take the elevator.

THE FASHION
The Fashion millinery store at 115 Merrimack street has grown into wonderful prominence and popularity since it has been under the management of Miss Cryan. There is no more attractive display in the city in the millinery line, both in the windows and in the interior of the store, than at this popular millinery establishment. This place has always made a specialty of mounting goods, and for years it has stood in the front line in that particular branch of the millinery business. Miss Cryan is ably assisted by several sales ladies as well as expert milliners, and it is no wonder that the business at these popular parlors is increasing each season. Judging from the way the ladies were placing orders yesterday it is an assured fact it will be a case of busy night and day for several weeks to come. The ladies are cordially invited.

HEAD & SHAW
Head & Shaw were for years on Merrimack street, have been for the past year located around the corner of John street. Their reputation for fine millinery and all the correct styles is well known to the ladies of this city and vicinity. When looking for the latest and best in millinery Head & Shaw's is the place that the ladies have in their visiting list, and yesterday was no exception from former years. Their place was packed all day and evening, and undoubtedly will be the rest of the week as their display is worth going quite a distance to see. Their goods are of the best, both in workmanship and the material, and the prices the lowest, perhaps, in the city. If you are looking for style you are sure to get just what you are looking for when you call at Head & Shaw's. Like the rest of the milliners, the opening will continue throughout the week.

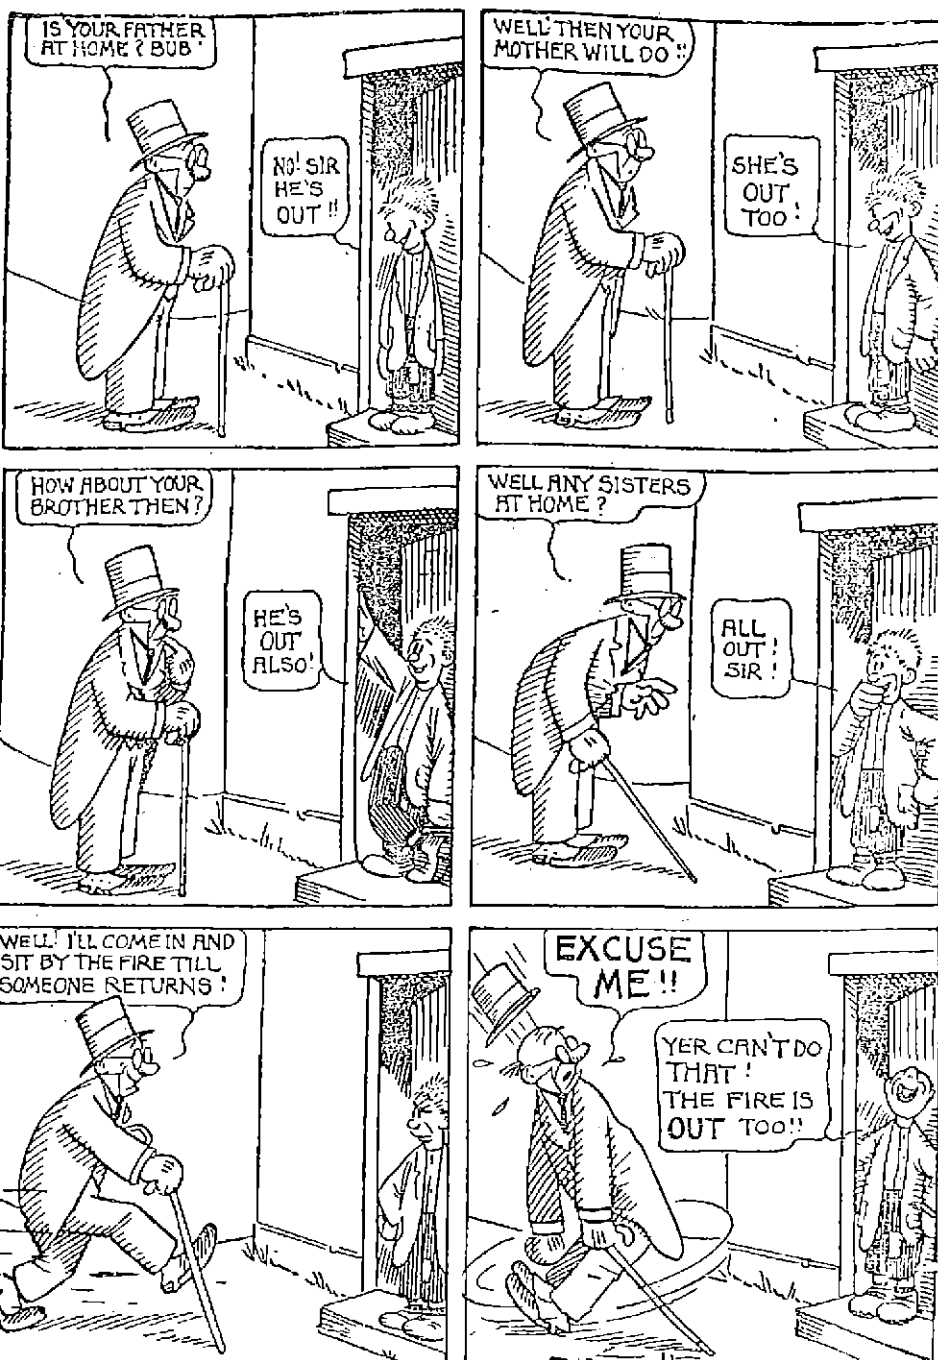

MISS BLENNERHASSETT.
Miss Kittie Blennerhasset's grand fall and winter millinery exhibit was like all her previous displays, very interesting to the ladies of Lowell and the suburbs who appreciate fine milliners. Miss Blennerhasset is in a class by herself, that is to say, with her own customer always a customer, seems to be the rule as she has a thorough knowledge of the business so that she can always please the most fastidious buyers. Her exhibit this week, probably surpasses her previous efforts. We will not attempt to particularize on any specialty, but would invite all to do as we have done, go and see for yourself the latest in hats and bonnets. You certainly will find the time pleasantly passed, and you will be well paid for calling at Room 46 Central block. Take the elevator.

MISS LENA LALUMIERE
Miss Lena Lalumiere's grand millinery display in the Old City Hall building is the place where the ladies never fail to call when out on a tour of inspection, as they know full well from the experience of past years, that Miss Lalumiere will always have something that will bring delight to

When Neighbors Meet
MRS. de TERNINE—So, yesterday afternoon was your husband's last half-holiday. Did you go anywhere?
MRS. REVIVE—No, but we accomplished lots at home. There are so many little things in the house, that this time of year need renovation. And one always feels satisfied if the duties performed are interesting and easy of execution.
MRS. de TERNINE—I did a little painting yesterday. C. B. Coburn Co. of Market street delivered a 25c can of Japanese enamel and after the dishes were cleaned away I applied it to one of my iron beds and was more than pleased with the result. There was enough of the enamel left to do a small mantle in the den.
MRS. REVIVE—C. B. Coburn Co. sold me a radiator brush, it is 36 in. long, cost 35c and makes a clean sweep. After using between the pipes, Mr. Revive applied some of Coburn's Aluminum Paint and now our radiators look as though they were newly installed.
MRS. de TERNINE—After all, pride in the home is pardonable and proper. A little paint does wonders.

EXCUSE ME!

the ladies when on their tour of inspection. This season she has made an exceptional effort to get the latest Parisian and London as well as New York creations in the milliner's art, and her large and always attractive reception parlors delight the ladies, and enable them to revel in the grandeur to be seen there. Miss Lalumiere and her salesladies were kept on the jump all day receiving compliments and orders. This year, no doubt, will be a record breaker for receiving orders. The exhibit will continue throughout the day and evening, and all day Saturday. All are welcome to attend.

LOUISE BERNIER
Miss Louise Bernier's parlors in the Wyman Exchange building are a bower of beauty such as one might read of in a novel. Miss Bernier has certainly obtained an enviable reputation as a milliner, and while she is one of the latest to establish herself in business, her success has been phenomenal. She certainly knows how to please the ladies, and yesterday her parlors were the scene of everything that would bring delight to the heart of a lady who admired fine millinery. She received a generous number of orders, and also many compliments for the attractive manner in which she entertained her visitors. If you wish to see something beautiful we would advise you to call on Miss Bernier. Take the elevator.

MADAM CARON
Madam Caron, while not among the milliners of Merrimack or Central streets, certainly has many customers who think it profitable to call on her at her spacious millinery parlors, corner of Emmet and West Sixth streets. Mme. Caron's patronage takes in the principal part of Centralville as well as many people in the city proper, she being an expert milliner, always employing the ablest assistants to aid her in her steadily growing business. While her display is very large and her ability equal to that of any in the city her expenses are so light that she can afford to deal more generously with patrons as she says herself she divides the profits with her customers, which makes considerable of an item when setting for your millinery. Her exhibit this season surpasses any of her previous efforts, and it would pay anybody who wanted to get fine millinery at the lowest possible price to call on Madam Caron. Don't fail to see her beautiful display. It will continue throughout the week.
